Bishop Watkins Assigned to Missouri-Mexico Area; Others Shifted.

Bishop J. L. Decell, pastor of Galloway Memorial Methodist church in Jackson, Miss., for the five years, will head the 10th district of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, comprising North Georgia, South Georgia, Alabama, North Alabama, it was announced yesterday by the college bishops in Birmingham.

R. W. T. Watkins, professor in school of theology at Emory university, elected a bishop this week at the general conference, to be in charge of the 12th Episcopal district, including Missouri, West Missouri, St. Louis and Ohio.

Born in Mississippi, Bishop Decell was born at Oklawaha, Miss., August 12, 1877. He was educated at Union college, Barbourville, Ky. Later, he attended Jackson, Miss., where he received the degree of doctor of divinity upon him.

He was licensed to preach in 1900 and admitted to the Mississippi annual conference in 1910. In addition to the Galloway Methodist church, his pastorates have included Oskola, Mount Olive, Chesboro and McComb churches in Mississippi; Central church, Meridian, and a church in Fresno, Cal. He was presiding elder of the Jackson and Brookhaven districts in Mississippi.

He was elected bishop on the second day of the Birmingham general conference this week, he has been member of four general conferences. He is also a member of the general board of Christian education and served as secretary to commission on unification. In the married Miss Bertha Whit of San Antonio, Texas.

"Strong Preacher."

Bishop Decell is a strong and preacher and is especially at executive and administrative work," the Rev. Zach Hayes, of the Epworth Methodist church on McLendon avenue, said.

On other Episcopal districts announced yesterday by the college bishops are as follows:

First Episcopal district, Bishop V. W. Darlington, Louisville, Ky., Illinois.

Second Episcopal district, Hoyt Dobbs, Memphis, Mississippi, Mississippi.

Tenth Episcopal district, Paul Flannery, Tennessee, Holston, Florida, Latin Mission, Cuba, Brazil.

Society Asks Millions For Better Babies

Eugenics Group Plans Scientific and Social Test to Improve Race.

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP)—Wanted: By the American Eugenics Society, a few millions of dollars to enable "high-grade young people" to have all the babies they want.

The idea is a scientific, social test, proposed to the society at the annual meeting today by its president, Dr. Ellsworth Huntington.

Eugenics, the science which aims at producing better humans, has definite knowledge, he said, that the parents from whom the improvement must come, are not limited to one class of society. They are in all classes, rich and poor, and some need help.

The time is ripe, he added, for a great experiment. Birth control is reducing the numbers of children born to the heretofore prolific parents of "lower grade," parents of frail physique, poor heredity, uncertain mentality and economic handicaps.

This fact reduces the competition of the "unfit," which has been the usual rule in the birth rate, and gives a chance for a race of supermen, if there is such a thing, to get started. The problem is how to know who is "high grade." A test is possible, said Dr. Huntington.

"If two young parents have two small children, for example," he said, "it is possible to test the intellectual, physical and temperamental qualities not only of the parents and their immediate relatives, but also of the children."

"It is likewise possible to apply a number of well-established methods of measuring the suitability of home training of children. Thus in particular cases it is possible to decide that in a certain family the chances are large that further children will be of high quality."

"It would be well for some great endowed foundation to experiment with such a system in order to see how it works. The American Eugenics Society might well elaborate plans along this line and bring them to the attention of men of wealth."

Federal Road Funds Are Expected Today

Authorization of an appropriation of $4,961,000 for federal aid highway and grade crossing funds in Georgia during 1940 and 1941, the state's normal share of the national road program, is expected in Washington today.

Of the estimated amount, $3,139,000 will be allotted for federal aid highways, $628,000 for secondary or feeder roads, and $1,194,000 for grade crossing eliminations.

The funds allotted will be matched by state money.

Atlantan Loses Arm When Car Overturns

ARDMORE, Okla., May 5.—(AP)—Two women were injured late today when their automobile overturned five miles northeast of here.

Mrs. H. Dyer, of Atlanta, Ga., suffered the loss of her right arm above the elbow, hospital attendants said. Mrs. Berg Colby, of Madill, Okla., received a bad arm injury.

Germany Plans Mass Emigration Of 30,000 Austrian Jews in '38

VIENNA, May 5.—(AP)—The German government was reported today to be planning an organized mass emigration of some 30,000 Austrian Jews in 1938, with the number to increase in succeeding years.

(There are 200,000 Jews in Austria, Germany and 600,000 who have some Jewish blood.)

It was understood transportation would be paid to ports of emigration with funds to be derived from the wealthy Jews in Austria, Germany.

Jewish leaders and government officials expressed confidence that under such supervision a number of countries, especially in South America, might be willing to accept Jewish immigrants for colonization of undeveloped areas.

CLOSE FRIENDSHIP OF DUCE, HITLER MARKS MEETINGS

Display of Comradeship Impresses Observers as Dictators Watch
Italian Navy Paraded.

MUSSOLINI SEEKS AID FOR TRIESTE

Wants Restoration of Lower Freight Rates,
Anschluss Eliminated.

NAPLES, May 5.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini, standing on the bridge of an Italian battleship, exchanged views today that may indicate the future course of their Nazi-Fascist partnership.

They talked aboard the Conte di Cavour while Italy's massed naval power showed the Fuehrer that Rome, whose ancient galley ships once made all others tremble on the seas, again could bid for dominance on the Mediterranean.

Hitler, a good-weather sailor himself, saw one of the greatest and most powerful fleet of fighting ships ever assembled in Mediterranean waters in full action.

Comradeship Display.

But it was the display of intimate comradeship between the two dictators that impressed observers.

Belief spread that Hitler successfully had repeated his assurances that he would forego the German-speaking Italian Tyrol in his relentless march toward inclusion of all Germans in a greater Germany.

It was believed also that the Fuehrer spent some time explaining that he was forced to annex Austria so swiftly that he had no time to notify his Fascist colleague, who had high stakes in the preservation of that country's independence.

Mussolini's sympathy for Hitler's colonial ambitions was not expected to lead him into any action that might upset Britain before the Italo-British Easter accord becomes effective.

Trieste Question.

With face-to-face pledges from Hitler that Germany will not touch the once Austrian Tyrol, Il Duce has demands of his own to make with a view to keeping Trieste alive as a world port.

Before Austria was absorbed March 13 in greater Germany, Austrian and Czechoslovak goods destined for the Tyrolean port enjoyed preferential freight rates. After Anschluss Hitler wiped them out. This hit hard and Mussolini is seeking German concessions to benefit Trieste.

Italo-German industrial collaboration was being discussed simultaneously with political conversations. A large group of German industrialists came to Italy with Hitler and conferences with Italian businessmen have been proceeding.

U. S. IS FOLLOWING PATH TO FASCISM, HOOVER DECLARES

Former President Points to the 'Dangerous Road'
Europe Trod, and Cites Parallels in This Land.

QUOTES ROOSEVELT TO LAY THE BLAME

Outlines 11-Point Program
He Says Necessary to 'Re-establish Faith.'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 5.—(UP)—Former President Hoover said tonight that the nation is traveling a "dangerous road" which leads to Fascism and outlined an 11-point program which he said was necessary to "re-establish faith that ours is going to continue as a system of free men and private enterprise."

Concerning the economic situation, he charged that "despite every alibi, this depression is the direct result" of actions of the Roosevelt administration.

The former Republican President said that his recent trip to Europe was concerned chiefly with an attempt to learn why 14 nations of more than 240,000,000 people had abandoned democracy for some form of dictatorship.

Causes of Lost Jobs.

The experiences of these nations, he said, "point to the causes of 12,000,000 lost jobs in our country today."

"Not one of those 14 nations started with the intention to surrender liberty," Hoover said. "They started by adopting panaceas to cure slumps or overcome economic difficulties. They all undertook new deals under some title, usually planned economy. In variable doses they undertook credit and currency manipulation, price-fixing, pump-and-prime, and spending with huge deficits and high taxes."

"Step by step they sapped the vitality of free enterprise by government experiments in dictation and socialistic competition."

Class Hate.

"Every succeeding step was egged on by politicians fanning class hate, exaggerating every abuse and besmirching every protesting voice. They did produce periods of artificial prosperity, only to collapse again."

Mr. Hoover said the "great human laboratories" of Europe have demonstrated that economic and political freedom are organically connected.

"Political liberty dies when economic liberty dies," he said.

"The current depression was due neither to conditions in Europe nor to the usual causes of our home-made depressions," the former President said.

Quotes Roosevelt.

He quoted from President Roosevelt's message to congress November 15, 1937:

"The fundamental situation is not to be compared with the far different conditions of 1929. The banking system is not overextended. Interest rates are lower. Inventories are no longer overlarge. We are no longer overextended in new construction or in capital equipment. Speculation requiring liquidation does not overhang our markets."

Mr. Hoover said it was "nonsense to say that either big or little business is on a strike. It is not so."

"We have had no such strike," he said. "We have been struck. Business is yearning to sell automobiles and new suits of clothes. It is yearning to extend power plants and build houses. Big businessmen or little businessmen are not scared to take on men if anybody will give them an order for goods. But who has the confidence to give the orders?"

Constructive action is needed, he said, to "get off this dangerous road" away from fear and re-establish confidence in the future.

'Lefty' Gomez Charged by Wife With Many Errors

He "used vile language."

"Lefty, what are you doing?"

MOORE SENTENCE INVOKED BY COURT

Ex-'Big Shot' Lottery Operator
Ordered to Serve
Remainder of Term.

The five-year suspended sentence of R. P. (Dick) Moore, ex-"big shot" lottery operator, was revoked yesterday in Fulton superior court by Judge Hugh M. Dorsey. This action climaxed a two-day hearing in which Moore was labeled as a victim of a $2,000 blackmail plot.

Under the order, Moore must serve the remainder of a five-year sentence imposed October 22 last year when he pleaded guilty to lottery operations with 21 other "big shot" lottery operators. All were given suspended sentences and fines.

Judge Dorsey issued the order upon conclusion of arguments by Defense Attorneys Paul Lindsay and W. R. Bentley, who charged Prosecutor E. E. Andrews with "intimidation" in connection with the arrest of two negro witnesses before daylight yesterday.

Abundant Evidence.

"Under testimony submitted, there is abundant evidence to show this defendant has not lived up to the mandate of the court," Judge Dorsey ruled. Moore was arrested April 27 when Andrews filed an application for revocation on grounds Moore had re-engaged in the "bug" racket from December to April 15.

Stanford Jones and another negro witness, identified as "Shot," were arrested early in the morning at the request of Andrews.

Lindsay charged the arrest of Jones is "not consonant with a liberty loving people and is a question of intimidation."

"I do not condone, but I condemn the arrest of persons without authority. The court is open to investigation to determine if this has been the case, but that is entirely a different matter from the one in hand. It has been shown beyond a reasonable doubt the defendant has not lived up to the terms of his sentence," Judge Dorsey said, issuing the order for revocation.

Motion by the defense to dismiss the hearing on grounds that jurisdiction over suspensions is now vested in the new state prison and parole commission was denied following the hearing.

Moore was taken immediately

Gomez Tried Death Jump, Wife Avers

June O'Dea Goes to Bat in Support of Cruelty Charges.

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP)—June O'Dea, musical comedy actress, testified in her suit for separate maintenance today that her husband, Vernon "Lefty" Gomez, tried to jump out of a window of their apartment a few months after they were married.

Miss O'Dea was the first witness in support of her cruelty and desertion charges against the New York Yankee pitcher.

Gomez, surrounded by a crowd of baseball enthusiasts, appeared in court to contest the suit. He contends their marriage was meaningless.

In the summer of 1933, Miss O'Dea said, she awakened one night and "saw that Lefty wasn't in bed."

"I walked into the next room and saw him standing at a window with one foot on the sill and his hands on the side of the window frame," she said.

"I called him and asked him, 'Lefty, what are you doing?' But he wouldn't answer me and I ran to him and pulled him back from the window."

Twice again the same night, she said, he tried to jump out of the window.

Disputing her husband's contentions, Miss O'Dea replied in the affirmative when her lawyer asked if she and Gomez did not go to Atlantic City "on what might be called a honeymoon" after their marriage.

Gomez, the actress said, roused her one night in April, 1937, and said he had thought out a perfect crime, with her as victim, he said.

"He could do it," she said, "because everyone thought he loved me. He said he would wear gloves and choke me to death, and leave. He would come back later, he said, and discover me and tell everybody his wife had been killed. Since he was indifferent to me, I was very much worried and could not sleep."

In 1934, she testified further,

WAGE BILL BLOC CLAIMS 218 NAMES

Petition to Force Vote
Comes Up Today; Foes
Prepare Senate Fight.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(UP)—The house steering committee which is devising strategy to force enactment of President Roosevelt's wage-hour bill, predicted tonight a petition to break the house rule committee's grip on the measure would be signed tomorrow by the required 218 representatives.

Representative Daly, Democrat, Pennsylvania, spokesman for the coalition group, said after a "check up" meeting that there are "more than enough pledges" to assure success of the petition which will be filed tomorrow by Representative Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, chairman of the house labor committee.

Backed by Labor.

Success of the petition, which is backed by organized labor, would bring the controversial bill to the house floor on May 23.

It was reported tonight, apparently with some basis of fact, that senate foes of the bill are preparing to launch an adjournment stampede if it gets through the house.

One official said a resolution for sine die adjournment, which takes preferential status over all other business, might be offered in the senate before that chamber has a chance to consider the issue. This failing, the opposition is prepared to filibuster, he said.

Pepper Victory.

The southern legislators oppose the bill because it contains no differentials for southern workers whose living costs are cheaper. They remained stubbornly opposed today despite the election victory of Senator Claude Pepper, Democrat, Florida, who campaigned in favor of the measure.

The opposition group won new strength today when the National Grange, claiming to represent 2,000,000 farm families; the National Co-operative Council, and the National Co-operative Milk Pro-

REVISION OF LAWS TO FREE INITIATIVE HELD NECESSARY

Temperately Phrased
Resolutions of United States Chamber of Commerce Pledge Aid.

WAGNER LABOR ACT DRAWS HEAVY FIRE

End of Crop Control Is Advocated; Currency
Stabilization Also Urged

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(UP)—Big and little business represented by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States tonight promised to co-operate with President Roosevelt in his recovery drive if he will agree to scrap or revise some reform laws and modify others now under consideration.

Resolutions adopted unanimously at the conclusion of the chamber's 26th annual meeting were critical of most New Deal policies, but were temperately phrased. They did not embody the fiery language used by individual delegates and public officials, including Senator Edward R. Burke, Democrat, Nebraska, in attacking such administration measures as the Wagner labor act.

Re-examination Asked.

The delegates were critical of the fact that efforts of business and government for recovery "have fallen short in their objectives," and called for a re-examination of federal measures looking toward the freeing of initiative in enterprises promoting employment. But, they likewise joined with the 16 "blue chip" industrial and financial executives who a fortnight ago pledged conditional co-operation in recovery moves.

"The businessmen of the country continue ready and eager to utilize every opportunity to devote their best efforts to advance these (recovery) purposes," a resolution said.

Chamber's Program.

The Chamber's program as outlined by the resolutions called for:

1. Freedom from future government threats to capital needs of business.
2. A thorough investigation of the operations of the Wagner labor act. Repeal or structural amendment of the law to safeguard the interests of employers and workers alike.
3. State regulation of wages and hours for the workers.
4. Co-operation between management and labor without recourse to the federal government on common problems.
5. Emphasis should be diverted from the control of crop production.

THREE MEALS A DAY

By SALLY SAVER.

Most of us are trying to think of some nice way to surprise mother on Mother's Day—to do something that will show her our regard for her.

Sally can't think of anything to suggest that would be nicer than something made with our own hands, and big daughters and sisters can easily either prepare the dinner for that day or make a special dessert such as pecan tarts. Mother will not only enjoy eating them but will especially enjoy the thoughtfulness of her children.

Something cold to drink and a few delicious cookies just about fill every need for summer entertaining, and satisfy the children after their play. Sally Saver's contest last week brought in many fine cookie recipes and in return Sally gives you recipes for cooling fruited drinks which provide precious vitamins, and refreshment.

The Cookie Recipe Contest. Don't forget, Sally is anxious to share with you all the recipes she receives in these contests. Many excellent ones come in, that space does not permit her to publish, but if you will write or phone Sally, at Walnut 6565, you will find her eager to help you in any culinary matter and to give you the tried and tested recipes and menus in her file.

The hundreds of cookie recipes received last week in answer to Sally's call prove that cookies are a universal favorite for almost everyone makes one kind or another.

Here are the prize recipes, three of them with variations which really gives you more than the five published recipes. Sally is firmly believes in good basic recipes as she believes in possessing a good basic dress. A few variations in a basic cookie recipe in color, size, shape, flavoring, and decorations and you have wealth of different cookies that delight the eye and palate.

Pinwheels.
(A Basic Recipe.)
1 cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
1 beaten egg.
1-2 cup milk.
3 cups flour.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
Cream shortening and sugar.

add egg, milk and flavoring, then sifted dry ingredients. Chill, roll out and bake in a moderately hot oven about 12 minutes.

These cookies may be varied by making up double the quantity, dividing into three or more portions, flavoring each differently, then cut into different shapes and decorate to add variety, with colored sugar, bits of candied cherries, citron, raisins, nuts.

You can also make pinwheels by making part of the dough plain and adding melted chocolate to the other part. Roll both very thin, lay chocolate over plain, roll up like a jelly roll, chill, and slice. Bake in moderate oven.

Sally Saver's Best Recipe Contest

What do you serve as a main course when you have company for dinner? What's your specialty that always wows them? You know that I mean. When special company comes to dinner you always put forth your best efforts and have an especially fine meal. Well, Sally and her friends are anxious to know what you serve at such a time. So Sally Saver is making a company dinner the subject of the contest for this week. Write Sally your favorite company menu and include the recipe for the main course only, and if Sally publishes the recipe and the menu in this column you will receive a prize of $1. That's not hard to do. In fact—it's easy money.

All you have to do is send your favorite company menu and the main course recipe to Sally Saver, care of The Atlanta Constitution, not later than Tuesday of next week.

Let's go!

2 crushed pineapple (drained)
2 teaspoon lemon juice
Cook all together until thick.
Use before using.

Apricot Filling.
1-2 cups sugar
8 teaspoon salt cup water tablespoons flour
Soak the apricots, add cup of water, which may be the water in which the apricots were soaked. Stir flour with part of water. Mix ingredients over a flame until the consistency of apple sauce.

Cottage Cheese Filling. cup cottage cheese tablespoons currants tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoon cinnamon
4 teaspoon nutmeg
4 teaspoon grated lemon rind tablespoon chopped nuts

1 tablespoon coconut
2 tablespoons fruit juice
1 egg
Blend all together.

RUTH STOKES.
673 Boulevard, N. E.,

Fruit Drinks.
With a free hand I recommend to you almost any fruit drink that can be mentioned. Have you tried these combinations which have the power to refresh and rebuild fatigued bodies at the same time they give supreme enjoyment to the summer appetite?

Blackberry Nectar.
2 cups blackberry juice.
1-2 cup lemon juice.
A dash of salt.
1 pint carbonated water.

Whole blackberries.
Use the juice from stewed fresh blackberries, or you may use the canned berries if desired. Combine berry juice and lemon juice, add salt, cracked ice and carbonated water. Shake or mix well; garnish with a few whole blackberries and a sprig of mint. Serve at once.

Pineapple-Lemon Cup.
Boil together for 10 minutes one cup of sugar and two cups water. Cool and add the juice of three lemons and two cups of canned grated pineapple. Set in the refrigerator to chill. Make a simple lemon water ice or sherbet in the automatic refrigerator. When ready to serve the beverage put a scoop of the ice in each glass, pour

Tip from a toy

It's only a toy, yet it matches her tiny pajamas in luxurious softness. And the pajamas are the softest imaginable, because they're made of gentle "Cellulose." Wouldn't this softness be fine in toilet tissues if you could get it? You can—if you ask your dealer for Northern Tissue. It's unusually soft, since it's the only nationally advertised toilet tissue made of pure cellulose. If you need a lower-priced tissue, ask for Gauze—lighter, cream-colored paper.

HIGH SCHOOL MEET OPENED IN ATHENS

Students Competing in Various Subjects.

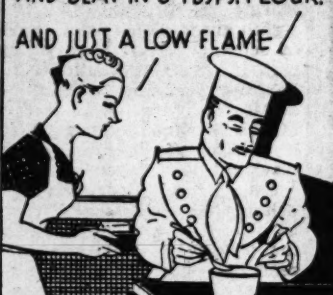

ATHENS, Ga., May 5.—(AP)—The Georgia High School Association opened its 21st annual meeting here today with high school students and their teachers competing in literary, musical and athletic contests. The session will conclude Saturday.

Today's program included a farm shop contest, a series of one-act plays and a piano competition. Tomorrow's program is to include a home economics contest, a violin contest and a declamation program in Peabody hall. Finals in the contest will compete Saturday morning.

Scholarships are to be awarded the winners in the piano and reading contests, while those taking first place in other events are to receive certificates.

Soubise Sauce

WHEN PREPARING A ROUX FOR THICKENING GRAVY, OR PREPARING A "MEDIUM" WHITE SAUCE, HEAT 3 TBSPS BUTTER AND BEAT IN 3 TBSPS. FLOUR.

FOR BETTER GRAVY OR SAUCE THIS MIXTURE SHOULD BE COOKED FOR 5 MINUTES STIRRING CONSTANTLY... THAT ELIMINATES THE "PAITE" TASTE OF RAW FLOUR... FOR WHITE SAUCE ADD A CUP OF WARM MILK

OR A CUP OF CREAM FOR A CREAM SAUCE.
NOW BOIL 3 MEDIUM SIZED ONIONS AND 2 SPRIGS OF PARSLEY IN SALTED WATER, AND FORCE THRU A SIEVE

"BAKED IN FRESHNESS"

The Merita Bakers take such great care to bake fine cakes for you that they want you to enjoy each Merita Cake to the very last crumb. This means, the last slice must be as fresh and moist as the first—that the Merita Cake you bought on Friday must be oven-fresh for Sunday night's supper. Merita's answer to freshness is "Baked-in Freshness"—a process that guarantees lasting freshness.

Buy Merita with the assurance that the last slice will be just as fresh as the first!

Students on Toes as Spelling Bee Nears End

Elizabeth Sanders, 14, of the eighth grade of the Twigg High school, Jeffersonville, who will represent Twigg county in the Constitution-National Spelling Bee state final.

Willie Belle Gulsby, Midway school champion speller, who won the Muscogee county title and will compete here Saturday for the state championship as arranged by The Constitution.

WEALTHY FARMER CLAIMS EXTORTION

Ohioan, 65, Implicates
Housekeeper, 17, in Plot.

HILLSBORO, Ohio, May 5.—(AP) Harley Spruance, wealthy 65-year-old farmer, reported to Sheriff Howard Dunseith today that a man and two women had kidnaped him and made him pay $3,000.

Spruance filed charges of kidnapping and extortion against Dorothy Hildebrand, 17, his housekeeper for the past two years; her sister, Mrs. Edna Merritt, 22, his former housekeeper; and Mrs. Merritt's husband, James, 25. They were sought tonight in Cincinnati. Spruance, a widower, told the sheriff the three came to his farm home Tuesday night and demanded the money. He said Merritt covered him with a gun while the two women tied him to a chair and Merritt hit him on the head with the gun.

Hartwell, Eatonton, Commerce, Quitman, Hogansville, Leesburg Report.

HARTWELL, Ga., May 5.—Margie Holbrooks, 13, of the eighth grade of Airline Consolidated school, is Hart county's champion in The Constitution-National Spelling Bee. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Holbrooks, of the Airline community. The runner-up was Joel Poole, of Bow-ersville Consolidated school.

County Superintendent of Schools W. A. Moss was in charge of the county's participation in the state-wide contest, which will send, at The Constitution's expense, Georgia's best speller and the responsible teacher to compete in Washington May 31 in the national final.

ELEANOR BONNER BEST IN PUTNAM

EATONTON, Ga., May 5.—Putnam county's best speller is Eleanor Bonner, 11, seventh grade pupil of Rockville school. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bonner and will be accompanied to the Atlanta final by her teacher, Mrs. D. D. Veal. Other contestants in the county final were Edna Brown, of Central; Jewel Welch, of Union Chapel, and Jim Rainey Howard, of Eatonton. P. C. Garris, county school superintendent, was in charge of the contest.

FRANCES BAIRD WINS AT COMMERCE

COMMERCE, Ga., May 5.—Superintendent of Schools S. F. Maughon announces Frances Baird as the winner and Carlene Anderson as the runner-up in the spelling competition in conjunction with The Constitution-National Spelling Bee.

JEAN SLIPS UP ON WORD "QUANTITY"

QUITMAN, Ga., May 5.—Jean Oesterreicher, 14, eighth grade pupil of Quitman High school, will take part in the state final of The Constitution-National Spelling Bee as Brooks county's champion. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Oesterreicher, of 406 Greenwood street, Quitman. The runner-up, Virginia Dekle, missed the word "quantity." The judges were W. P. Warren, Mildred Bennett and Sarah Drew. W. J. Cooley is superintendent of Brooks county schools.

BUCK HAYE ADDS 4 COUNTIES TO STRING

HOGANSVILLE, Ga., May 5.—Hogansville's school spelling champion is Buck Hays, eighth-grade pupil, and his sway includes parts of Troup, Meriwether, Heard and Coweta counties served by this independent system. C. O. Lam is superintendent of the system.

MISSSES ONLY 1 WORD IN HUNDRED

LEESBURG, Ga., May 5.—Athalie McLeod, aged 12, a seventh-grade pupil of Leesburg High school, is Lee county's champion speller. She won this title in a written test given by Superintendent J. G. Pryor, of Smithville, and J. M. Mitchell, of Leesburg. She missed only one word of 100. The runner-up was Thomas Burton, of Smithville, who missed seven of 100 words. The judges were Miss Mary Dance, of Leesburg, and Superintendent J. G. Pryor, of Smithville.

Athalie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. McLeod, of Leesburg, and will represent Lee county in the finals of the contest sponsored by The Constitution.

JERSEY CITY VETS THREATEN SOLONS

Catholic Leader Warns Against Speech Attempt.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 5.—(AP)—A Catholic War Veterans' leader threatened tonight to have 800 uniformed veterans with rubber hoses at Journal Square Saturday night if two congressmen make good their promise to speak in defiance of Mayor Frank Hague.

"If necessary," said Senior Vice Commander Charles Brophy, "we will have 800 uniformed men there, each with two feet of rubber hose," if Representatives O'Connell, Democrat, Montana, and Bernard, Farmer-Laborite, Minnesota, try to speak.

WILLIE DANIELS RITES WILL BE HELD TODAY

Funeral services for Willie Daniels, famous negro cateress who died Monday, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Friendship Baptist church, at the corner of Mitchell and Haynes streets, S. W. Dr. E. R. Carter, her pastor, will officiate, assisted by Bishop W. A. Fountain, the Rev. W. R. Wilkes and the Rev. J. C. Wright. Burial will be in South View cemetery.

Reared in the country, Willie, who was 70 at the time of her death, came to Atlanta when she was young and rode to fame and fortune on her pots and pans. An active worker for the betterment of her race, friends have been requested not to send flowers to the services, but to contribute to the Willie Daniels Memorial Fund for Colored Children. The money raised will be used to feed and clothe needy children in the negro schools of the city.

REUNION IS PLANNED FOR '08 GEORGIA CLASS

The class of 1908, University of Georgia, will hold a reunion in Athens June 12 and 13, the 30th anniversary of their graduation. BUICK BRINGS YOU THE KEY TO A WORLD OF PLEASURE

STRAIGHT from headquarters of the 1939 New York World's Fair comes the official courier of this great international exposition, to bid all the people of this state welcome to New York City's coming spectacle.

He brings a key to the wonders, the beauty and the fun of the World's Fair—a key he presents to the Governor as the representative of the whole state.

Fittingly enough, he brings that key in a Buick. Fittingly because in Buick itself you find the key to a world of pleasure—again, because Buick itself is example of the marvelous things modern science and industry do for us all.

The satisfactions you enjoy from a Buick start with the lightning-quick power of its DYNAFLASH engine —certainly an engineering highspot today.

The marvelously buoyant travel-comfort you know in a Buick stems from its exclusive new TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING—a bold advance in rear-spring design that not merely gives a jarless ride, but actually lessens skid risks, saves tire wear, makes the whole car more directable.

Proud that Buick was chosen to carry the World's Fair's welcome to you, we're glad to add our voice to that of New York City in urging you to visit this Exposition next year.

And when you plan your trip, if you seek to get the utmost out of it—we suggest you consider traveling by Buick.

We think your dealer can quickly show you that the whole journey will be better fun if you arrange now to make it in this glorious car.

"Better buy Buick!"

Group of Southern Methodists Pledges Loyalty to Unified Church

Seven New Bishops Are Elected Before Conference Adjourns; Atlanta Organization Maps Plans for Civil Court Test on Vote for Consolidation.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 5.—(P)—The last quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, as now constituted, adjourned today on a note of loyalty to the unified church made possible by historic action of this body.

A group of southern Methodists among those who previously fought the "plan of union" arose near the close of the general conference and pledged support to "The Methodist Church," the denomination of approximately 8,000,000 adherents to be created by merging of the southern branch with the Methodist Episcopal (north) and Methodist Protestant churches.

Court Plans Mapped. In Atlanta, however, an attorney for organized laymen who opposed union of North and South churches, split by a negro slavery dispute in 1844, mapped a civil court test of the general conference's vote for unification. The vote, 434 to 26, was upheld by the highest Southern Methodist ecclesiastical judiciary.

The Laymen's Organization for Preservation of the Southern Methodist Church, which has promised to "preserve the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, forever," claims 30,000 southern members will "secede" from the unified denomination. The Methodist Episcopal Church (north) and the Methodist Protestant church already have sanctioned unification.

Last Conference. The general conference ended after handling with remarkable speed the memorable business before it. Within an eight-day session, shortest regular conference

Schools Must Fly State, U. S. Flags

The official state flag must be displayed as well as the United States flag on the campuses of Georgia public schools beginning next term, under a new rule of the state board of education. The board could withhold teachers' salaries in event of non-compliance.

A report on the flag project will be made at the state board meeting next Wednesday by Mrs. A. B. Conger, Bainbridge; Mrs. Frank McDowell, Columbus; and Mrs. Elizabeth McWaters, of Cedartown.

In Southern Methodist history, the body:

1. Adopted the "plan of union" ending more than a century of schism within the Methodist church;
2. Heard its judicial council clarify church law in upholding legality of unification procedure;
3. Elected seven additional bishops within a single day, a feat never before accomplished by a general conference with such speed;
4. Authorized retirement of five bishops;
5. Perfected machinery for making unification of the branches of Methodism a fact, including appropriation of $75,000 as a "unifying conference expense fund."
6. Observed the 200th anniversary of the (Aldersgate) conversion of John Wesley, founder of Methodism.

Six Jurisdictions. Areas where Southern Methodism now is largely centered will become parts of two jurisdictional conferences with completion of unification. The new "Methodist church" will be divided into six jurisdictions in all, with organized negro conferences and missions a part of the central jurisdiction.

The southeastern unit will encompass practically all of the "solid south," with Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia in its boundaries.

Arkansas, Louisiana, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas, strongholds of Southern Methodism, will be included with Kansas, Nebraska and New Mexico in a south-central jurisdiction.

The northeastern area will cover Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia along with the eastern and New England states.

Other Conferences. Other conferences are the western, including the far west states, and the north-central, covering the midwest and Great Lakes territory.

These are geographical units, with the central jurisdiction located by administrative requirements.

Today's final session was highlighted by peace moves among former antiunificationists.

The loyalty movement took form when Charlton Du Rant, Manning, S. C., who voted against the plan of union, told the conference he felt "the time for agitation is past."

"Every similar merger has been followed by litigation testing all the questions involved," Du Rant said. "I have no such plans. We should quietly... decide what is best for the Kingdom of God."

Allegiance Pledged. Several others who fought to keep the southern church separate from Northern Methodism swept to the speaking platform to pledge their allegiance to the church of union.

Jere Wells, Hapeville, Ga., said: "I wish heartily to indorse the statement of Charlton Du Rant that bad feeling ought to die out. It will be my purpose to do all in my power for the ongoing of the Kingdom of God."

"I did my duty as I saw it," asserted L. W. Lane, Nashville, Tenn., "in discharging my responsibility to my conference. I am now with the unified church."

B. A. Whitmore, Nashville, S. H. Short, Petersburg, Va., and Dr. B. R. Turnipseed, Rock Hill, S. C., were others originally against unification who expressed loyalty to the unified church.

"Fifth, revise the taxes so as to free the initiative and enterprise of men."

"Sixth, reduce relief expenditure by one-third through decentralizing its administration. Put it back into non-political committees in each community and require the state and local communities to find 5 or 10 per cent of the cost."

"Seventh, by savings on relief and reduction of other expenses and the end of pump priming, drive really to balance this budget."

"Eighth, stop credit inflation juggling."

"Ninth, set up a court of 25 responsible non-political men representing business, labor and agriculture to direct Federal Reserve policies and take that control of credit out of the hands of politicians."

"Tenth, give the employer and all branches of labor the same rights before the labor board and appoint judicially-minded men to the board."

"Eleventh, stop indiscriminate defamations of business and the creation of class hate."

BRITAIN HANDS 3 PORTS TO EIRE

Churchill Foresees Difficulty Feeding Countrymen in Another European War.

LONDON, May 5.—(P)—The house of commons tonight passed Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's epochal "peace with Ireland" agreement despite a bitter attack on its defense provisions by the veteran "elder statesman," Winston Churchill.

Under the pact, Britain surrenders unconditionally the British controlled naval ports of Cobh (Queenstown), Loughswilly and Berehaven.

Churchill, speaking to an intently listening house, had declared that Britain's surrender of the three ports left her without facilities "indispensable" to her in case of war.

"The dark forces of the Irish underworld tried to strike us in the back in the most critical stages," Churchill declared, referring to Ireland's stand during the World War. Churchill was first lord of the admiralty when that conflict broke out.

Striking at the roots of Britain's biggest war-time problems, the chubby, pink-cheeked Churchill told an intent house:

"The admiralty have assured me that without the use of these ports (as bases to operate against submarines) it would be very difficult, perhaps impossible, to feed these islands in time of war."

He said the three ports were being surrendered to "a man whose rise to power has been in proportion to the animosity with which he has acted against this country."

De Valera would use the ports, Churchill declared, as a lever to force the union of all Ireland or otherwise would remain neutral in case of war.

Chamberlain, acknowledging the government made great concessions said this was done because in wartime with "an unfriendly Ireland you would have to send troops there to protect your rights in the ports."

PUBLISHER CALLED BY LOBBY PROBERS

Rural Magazine Executive Summoned to Washington; Glenn Frank His Editor.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(P)—The senate lobby committee broadened its investigation of alleged "propaganda" against Roosevelt policies today by summoning Maurice V. Reynolds, Chicago, publisher of the Rural Progress, to testify tomorrow about material printed in his magazine.

Chairman Minton, Democrat, Indiana, said the committee had no present intention of subpoenaing Dr. Glenn Frank, new chairman of the Republican party policy committee, who is editor of the magazine. Minton's assistants said Frank only recently became editor and therefore was not involved in the inquiry.

Minton indicated committee members felt the general tone of some articles was unjustly critical of the administration. He said there was nothing sensational in the nature of the articles but that he thought some of the statements they contained constituted "subtle propaganda."

Two Humming Birds Die in Screen Mesh

'Suicide Pact' Question Puzzles Owner of Home Where Found.

Death ended the flight of two humming birds when they flew into the wire mesh of a porch screen at the home of Mrs. Carroll B. McGaughey, at Mt. Vernon and Dunwoody roads.

Closeness of the bodies, which were found by Mrs. McGaughey yesterday morning, indicated the birds were flying side by side and that they hit the screen at the same moment.

"I'm wondering if it was a suicide pact or an accident," said Mrs. McGaughey.

The birds were found in identical positions—the right wing folded under and the left wing extended, indicating a final, desperate effort to pull free.

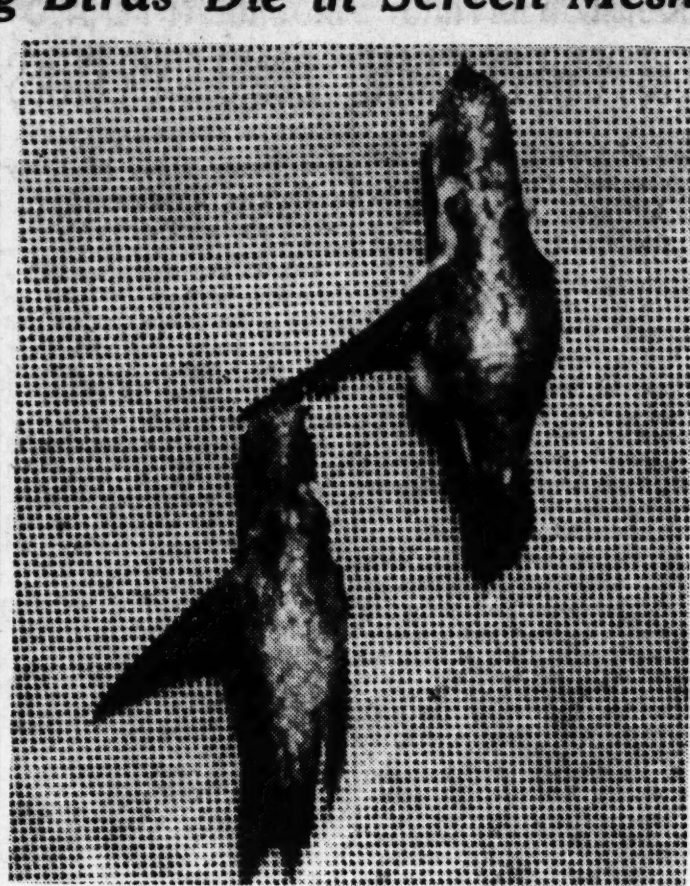

Mrs. McGaughey said the tiny birds probably struggled to free themselves until they became exhausted, and thus died.

"Unless," she concluded, "it was an agreement to fly into the screen and end their lives."

FATHER ADDS TIME TO LEVINE REWARD

NEW YORK, May 3.—(P)—Murray Levine, his voice choking frequently with emotion, roused by thoughts of the kidnapping of his son, Peter, 12, announced today he had extended the time limit of his offer of a reward from May 10 to June 15.

Levine said he was preparing to send out more than 50,000 circulars describing the boy and offering $25,000 for his safe return and $5,000 for information leading to his boy.

Constitution Staff Photo—Wilson.

Humming birds' flight ended in death, and now Mrs. Carroll B. McGaughey, at whose home the bodies were found, is pondering if the tragedy was a "suicide pact" or an accident. The birds' bills were driven into wire mesh when they struck a porch screen. Closeness of the bodies indicated the birds were flying side by side when death overtook them.

Sally Rand Talks To Harvard Boys With Clothes on

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 3.—(P)—Sally Rand, the bubble dancer, lectured more than 1,000 Harvard freshmen tonight at a class of '41 speaker on "How To Be Intelligent Though Educated."

Admitting she was "intrepid" in appearing in a flowing, peach evening dress instead of with her fans or bubbles, Miss Rand thanked the students "for recognizing me with my clothes on," then swung into a dissertation on world unrest, labor, capital and politics.

Ignoring shouts of "take it off," Miss Rand urged her audience to "go out and brave new intellectual frontiers and be Daniel Boones."

Later Miss Rand confided she hoped to leave her fans and bubbles behind and concentrate on the legitimate stage.

"Boo! Boo!" was the answer to that.

FRANC IS ATTACHED TO POUND IN CRISIS

Daladier Does Financial Hand-Spring To Halt Capital Flight.

PARIS, May 3.—(P)—Premier Edouard Daladier pulled France out of the immediate financial hole today by revaluing the French franc and pinning it to the British pound sterling.

The government fixed a lower limit of 179 francs to the pound sterling as the new bottom—equivalent to 35.80 francs to the dollar at the rate of $5 to the pound.

Devaluation—the third since the World War—will give paper profit of more than $1,200,000,000 francs on the Bank of France's gold reserves. This step may be delayed for technical reasons.

The government, which Daladier earlier estimated would need 35,000,000,000 francs to carry through 1935, however, has an obligation of more than 40,000,000,000 francs to the Bank of France.

Daladier's first goal was to restore the Frenchman's confidence in his own government.

Finance ministry officials said 4,000,000,000 francs of French capital returned to Paris this morning.

DOLLAR DEVALUATION OFFICIALLY DENIED

WASHINGTON, May 3.—(P)—Responsible officials have denied that the United States is planning to devalue the dollar.

They said there was no basis for reports that recent negotiations with France concerning the franc also involved possible cuts in the gold content of the dollar and British pound.

PRISONER TRANSFERRED.

MACON, Ga., May 3.—(P)—Lester A. Wheelock, alias Robert (Boots) Johnson, was taken from the Bibb county jail today by federal officers for transfer to Omaha, Neb., where he is to stand trial on charges of impersonating a federal officer. Wheelock recently finished serving a two and a half-year sentence in Crisp county, the officers said.

FIREMEN TO GET DIPLOMAS TODAY

Mayor Hartsfield Will Award Certificates.

Graduation exercises for Atlanta's fourth annual Georgia State Fire College will be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Lee Street school auditorium.

Final classes will be held this morning followed by a luncheon at 1 o'clock this afternoon at Station No. 7 after which there will be a meeting to discuss organization of a Georgia Firemen's Association.

At the exercises Mayor Hartsfield will award certificates to all who attended this year's course and diplomas to those who have completed the four-year course. Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of Atlanta schools, will speak on "Why It Is Necessary to Make a Study of Changing Conditions."

BAR ASSOCIATION OPENS MEMBERSHIP

New Constitution Changes Governing Policies; Two Committees Named.

AUGUSTA, Ga., May 3.—(P)—Membership in the Georgia Bar Association was opened today to all practicing lawyers, teachers of law in the various law schools, and judges of municipal courts by a new constitution adopted by the group in session here.

Other major changes in the constitution and by-laws, according to William C. Turpin Jr., Macon, president of the association, include placing the governing of the organization in the hands of a governing board, members of which are to consist of the officers, the immediate past president, representative from each of the 33 circuit bar associations, and a delegate from the law school division.

Two committees were appointed today.

On the resolutions committee the following were named: James M. Hull, of Augusta, chairman; J. M. B. Bloodworth, Atlanta; Charles J. Bloch, Macon; Robert L. Russell, Winster, and Wright Abbott, Louisville.

J. Cliff Hatcher, of Waynesboro, was named chairman of the nominating committee with the following members: James W. Popper, Macon; William P. Wheelchel, Gainesville; Charles T. Winship, Atlanta, and Henry M. Dunn, Savannah.

A proposal for changes in its constitution was laid before the association by President William C. Turpin Jr., of Macon.

Provisions Outlined.

The new constitution outlined by the president would provide:

1. Any (white) attorney may join the association upon written application and indorsement of one member.

2. A governing board of four officers and one member from each circuit bar association.

3. The nomination of officers by governors.

Urging approval of the new constitution, Turpin said the "future value of this association depends largely" on its adoption.

Program Offered.

He suggested the following six-point program for the future:

1. Continued publication of the Georgia Bar Association Journal.

2. Employment of an assistant secretary as editor.

3. Furnishing association members with copies of new Georgia laws and code amendments.

4. Organization of small groups to study "specific fields of law."

5. Closer co-operation with Georgia law schools.

6. Legal clinics for "post admission legal education" at conventions.

REPORTER EXPLAINS BLACK, KLAN STORY

Pennsylvania Women Hear
Ray Sprigle, Pulitzer Prize Winner.

PITTSBURGH, May 5.—(P)—Ray Sprigle, veteran Pittsburgh reporter, explained to the State Federation of Pennsylvania women today how he obtained the story of Justice Hugo Black's membership in the Ku Klux Klan—an accomplishment for which he received a Pulitzer award of $1,000.

"It was just another assignment," contended Sprigle. "There wasn't any romance to it. I just went down to Birmingham and asked a lot of questions and dug into a lot of dusty forgotten records."

"The people there thought it was strange anybody would come that far just to get a story about a man belonging to the Klan. Some suggested it would be a bigger story to find someone who didn't."

Sprigle brought applause from the assemblage with the statement:

"I found the first opposition to the Klan in the entire south came from the organized women's clubs of Alabama."

PERTINENT QUESTION ASKED AT MEETING

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 5. (P)—Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture in President Hoover's cabinet, looked over the crowd of 7,500 persons which heard the former President speak here tonight.

Upon being introduced from the speakers' platform, he said: "Where were all you fellows at the last election?"

WAR CHIEF WARNS OF DANGER TO U. S.

Woodring Tells Business Defense Is Vital Need.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(P)—Secretary Woodring said today that "we would be derelict in our duty if we did not recognize the hazards in the world situation."

The War Department head, in an address to the United States Chamber of Commerce, urged the necessity of a strong national defense system for this country, but added that the United States "will ever stand ready to co-operate" in any movement for "real world peace."

Democrats now are strongly pacifistic, Woodring said, but added that "if pressed too far a wave of indignation might sweep over them that would make it extremely difficult to keep the peace."

tion to government efforts to increase foreign markets to absorb America's yield.

6. The government to continue efforts to stabilize world currencies and meanwhile to continue reciprocal trade treaties which do not provide destructive competition with American agriculture and industry.

7. Self-Policing Wanted.

8. Indorsement of the New Deal's anti-monopoly campaign provided it leaves the policing job largely to business and provided that component parts of business be allowed to negotiate pacts looking toward preventing overproduction and other practices which the administration seeks to combat.

9. Elimination of government competition with private enterprise.

10. Restoration of a "satisfactory" international monetary standard and strict maintenance of the integrity of the world currencies.

11. Preservation of the dual system of American banking.

12. Adoption of a long-term program to rehabilitate the railroads, to be preceded by a congressional inquiry to determine the needs.

13. Systematic rehabilitation of the merchant marine.

14. Furtherance of a broad flood control program.

15. Continuation of government efforts to limit armaments, but meanwhile maintenance of adequate naval, land and air defenses.

16. Consideration by the government of all "reasonable" proposals for modification of World War debts.

Willingness to Compromise.

Unlike previous sessions of the chamber the delegates today recognized that balancing of the federal budget immediately is impossible, and they did not demand it. Likewise, their stand for outright repeal of the Wagner act was not as forceful as in the past, and there were indications of a definite willingness to compromise on the controversial issue.

This position was emphasized by Lewis E. Pierson, chairman of the Irving Trust Company, New York, a delegate. Making it plain that he was speaking only for himself, Pierson issued a statement appealing to management and labor to end their battle and to co-operate for the common good.

Green Offer.

His statement came only a few hours after President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, offered to substitute co-operation for strife and appeal to the business delegates to adopt a more conciliatory attitude toward responsible trade unionism.

At the same time, however, Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate, sharply attacked a speech made yesterday by William S. Knudsen, president of the General Motors Corporation, assailing industrial unionism. Martin, replying to Knudsen's statement that the Wagner Act had inspired industrial conflict, said that "open and flagrant violation of the basic constitutional and civil liberties of the workers by the employers gave birth to the act."

The chamber re-elected George H. Davis, of Kansas City, president.

INSURGENT PLANES BOMB FOUR CITIES

Red Envoy Hints at Early End of Spanish War, Proposes Plebiscite.

VALENCIA, May 5.—(UP)—Insurgent bombers in raids on Valencia, Castellon, Oropesa and Villareal today destroyed more than 100 buildings and inflicted casualties known to exceed 14 dead and 30 wounded.

Twenty Junkers planes dropped 50 bombs at 1 p. m., an official government announcement stated. At 5 p. m., 40 bombers attacked and loosed approximately 300 bombs.

Seventy of the destroyed buildings were in Castellon. Property damage in Valencia was heavy. A French merchant ship, the Djem, was struck and set afire but the blaze was extinguished without heavy damage.

LOYALIST DEFENSES CRUMBLE ON 14-MILE FRONT

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 5.—(UP)—A triple line of Loyalist concrete defenses that for three weeks had stalled the insurgent drive down the Mediterranean seacoast crumbled today along a 14-mile front under one of the worst artillery bombardments of the civil war, insurgent dispatches said.

General Miguel Aranda was said to have swept through the enemy lines behind fleets of tanks.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL WANTS PLEBISCITE

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(UP)—The Spanish embassy today delivered to the United States a note from the Loyalist government which requested confidence in ultimate victory in the civil war in Spain and promised a plebiscite after the war in which the people might express their will.

Minister Enrique Carlos de la Casa, charge d'affaires, delivered the note to the State Department.

MOORE SENTENCE INVOKED BY COURT

to Fulton tower to await transfer to a county camp. He faces a term of 53 months and 15 days. Lindsey said he would appeal to the Georgia supreme court to allow Moore to make a bond.

The hearing opened yesterday as Mrs. Carl Moore took the stand. She testified she had requested Moore to give her husband $2,000 as payment for shortages and bicycles in the lottery business he and her husband operated during the past four months.

Moore had stated she threatened to "go to Solicitor General John A. Boykin" with evidence that "would send me to the chain gang" unless he paid her the $2,000, which he refused to do.

Poor, Moore's brother-in-law, who Wednesday said he and Moore had re-entered the "bug" racket as partners with Moore's wife, took the stand again and said he had quit the lottery racket because Moore "wouldn't let me go to the offices and they were having too many shortages."

Memory Fails.

Poor's memory failed when Lindsey went into the question of his marriage and reason for his wife's demand of $2,000 from Moore. Lindsey's cross-examination was as follows:

Q. When did you and Mrs. Moore get married? A. About three years ago.

Q. What date? A. I don't exactly remember, but it was in the spring and on a Monday.

Q. Where were you married? A. It was some little town in South Carolina.

Q. Why did you go to South Carolina and who married you there? A. Well, we were just riding around. We went on up into South Carolina, but I don't know whether it was a preacher or a justice of the peace. It was in 1933.

Will Sail for New Antarctic Expedition

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Ellsworth, who plan to sail from New York on the liner Europa August 16 for Southampton, where the noted explorer and wife will fly to Arusha, near Nairobi, Africa. They will remain there until it is time for him to join his latest expedition to the Antarctic. He will join his crew on the ship Wyatt Earp at Cape Town about October 10.

PRISON VICTIM BURIED.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., May 5.—Harry K. Sligh, life-term prisoner at the Thomas county stockade, who died in a hospital here of a poison dose said to have been self-administered, was buried here yesterday by friends.

PLUNGES TO DEATH.

BALTIMORE, May 5.—(P)—Joseph J. Cox, 7, plunged to his death from a second-floor window today at the University hospital while waiting to be examined in the dispensary.

ELLSWORTH PLANS POLAR EXPEDITION

Will Sail From New York For England On August 13.

when I reach the coast of Enderby Land, some 2,500 miles south of Cape Town, I may attempt a flight clear across the Antarctic continent to Little America, more than 2,000 miles away, which was also the terminus of my flight from Dundee island two years ago.

It is my hope that from the fact-finding expedition we will be able to bring back much geological and other scientific information. Sir Douglas Mawson has found definite evidence of silver, copper and other mineral deposits along the coast, which may be indicative of rich wealth inland. This area is already claimed by Australia and consequently I will be unable to claim any new territory for the United States. On my expedition two years ago, I claimed 300,000 square miles of territory for this country.

The progress of our expedition and any discoveries we may be fortunate enough to make will be reported in my radio dispatches to The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

My expedition will consist of sixteen men, including ship's crew, airplane technicians and medical officer. I am not yet, however, in a position to announce the names of the personnel. The expedition will leave New York on the good ship Wyatt Earp, which has already carried expeditions of mine more than 120,000 miles.

Mrs. Ellsworth and I have reservations on the Europa, sailing three days later. From Southampton we plan to fly all the way to Arusha, near Nairobi, where we will remain until it is time for me to join the Wyatt Earp at Cape Town about October 10. After loading additional supplies we will sail about November 1 for the coast of Enderby Land, 2,500 miles to the south.

she found she was to become mother and told Gomez. They agreed, she said, "not to have children for three or four years."

So, at her husband's suggestion, Miss O'Dea testified, she underwent an operation and they went soon afterward for Japan, where Gomez appeared with an all-baseball team on tour.

During the trip, she added, Gomez "drank constantly and used vile language when I tried to stop him from drinking."

SECOND VICTORY LOOKS FOR CHINA IN SHANTUNG FRONT

Jubilant Forces Thrust Japanese Back, Slice Communication Lines.

SHANGHAI, May 6.—(Friday)—Chinese, jubilant in hopes of second major victory on the Shantung front, reported their divisions today were continuing to keep back Japan's front lines. Thrusting through the center, the Chinese said they were approaching Szechughen, 18 miles north of Pihshien, in southern Shantung. Only a week ago Japanese were threatening Pihshien. On the right wing, Chinese said flying column had skirted Tangeng and had established itself north of the city, cutting Japanese communications. Tangeng had marked the uttermost advance of the Japanese toward the Lunghai railway, miles away. Now, Chinese said, is surrounded and a Chinese army has recaptured Matowchen, a walled town four miles to the northwest. On the Lini-Tancheng highway, which the Japanese offensive thundered southward two weeks ago, Chinese asserted they had captured 100 Japanese trucks trying food and ammunition and destroyed 20. Chinese reported more than 100 Japanese had been killed in the past two days. Their losses, however, were believed to be much higher. Neutral observers expressed the view that the situation again was coming deadlocked. Japanese warplanes, working in days, continued their efforts to pick Chinese reinforcements. Ten yesterday Japanese bombers raided villages south of Tancheng where 10,000 Chinese are billeted. Despite such attacks, Chinese claimed they soon would be able to put 300,000 men into the front line.

LRB IS GRANTED FORD CASE RECALL

Company, Attempting to Make New Wagner Act Test, Balked by Board.

COVINGTON, Ky., May 5.—(AP)—The United States circuit court granted today the Labor Relations Board's petition to withdraw its request for an enforcement order against the Ford Motor Company. The company, attempting to take a new test of the Wagner act's constitutionality, had sought to avert withdrawal of the request, through which the Labor board had aimed to put into effect its order of last December ordering the reinstatement of 20 workers and demanding the company cease alleged antiunion coercion. The Labor Board asked for the withdrawal in the light of a supreme court decision last week in Department of Agriculture case. The court likewise granted to the board's request to withdraw a record of proceedings in a case, which originated last year upon a complaint entered by the United Automobile Workers of America. Judges Ben Hicks, C. C. Simons and Florence E. Allen concurred in the decision. A few hours previously, Frederick H. Wood, chief Ford counsel, asked the court to require the LRB to provide a certified copy of all records in the case. Wood also asked the court to strain the board from taking any action for five days after such time as the court might grant his request. The board last December ordered the company to reinstate 20 Michigan workers and to terminate alleged antiunion coercion of employees. This week Ford asked the court for permission to determine if the Labor Board had committed any "outrages," such as John L. Lewis, Homer Martin, Benjamin Cohen or Thomas Corran, before making its decision. The action today was designed to avert withdrawal of the case.

ARE HOME STANDARDS DETERIORATING?

Speaking before the convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. A. B. Conger, president, lauded women for their part in achieving a higher standard of living. But, she added, if a generation of unconsecrated mothers is to arise as a result of their present status in the world's affairs, the new freedom has failed.

It is regrettably admitted by most women that the status of the home has radically changed. Women, in ever increasing numbers, have gone into the world of business to improve their economic position, for the enlargement of the family budget.

This has had a tendency to bring about what Mrs. Conger calls a "normal slack." No woman can leave the home for the day's business and at the same time hold down, to the best of her ability, the full-time job of wife and mother.

There is bound to be that slackening which too often results in divided allegiances, frequently in separations and divorces.

But no one will question the normalcy of the desire of all American women to own a home, to better educate their children, to have the means, not otherwise obtainable, for the cultural development of the family. The financial demands of the modern child are necessarily large. And they must be met if the desired standard of living is to be attained.

It is simply a question of weighing the good effects of one against the detrimental results of the other. Can a woman make a better home, become a more understanding mother, with more time at home on the smaller budget, or do better by her family by going into the world of business and adding to the family income?

While the status of women has changed tremendously, so also has the status of men. For every woman who has entered business in the past 25 years, it can be argued logically that one man has been replaced or, at least, reduced in economic rank. So, it would seem, many women are faced with spinsterhood, or a very frugal married life, unless they utilize the opportunity to increase the family income.

Beyond question, more knowledge and a better understanding of the problem of living together is essential if the condition referred to by Mrs. Conger is to be improved. The time and study being given to it by women's clubs will, it is to be hoped, bring good results.

NAZI METHODS IN MICHIGAN

Astonishing news has come out of Genesee county, the center of Michigan's sit-down strikes last year. There are, according to the welfare administrator, 12,000 family men in this county who will never return to work. Those not on relief now, soon will be. It will be impossible to maintain them. They must leave the county.

Leave the county! That has the familiar ring of central Europe, but it is new to the United States. Must leave the county! By what authority? And where will these unwanted family men go? Being family men, presumably they have wives and children. Is it reasonable to suppose other states will be in position to assume the burden of caring for these unfortunate people, in addition to their own, merely because another state deliberately shirks its responsibility?

As a sort of palliative to being kicked out by government ukase the deportees would be permitted to select their new homes. Even transportation expenses will be provided toward shifting the burden to other shoulders. But unless the unwanted move on, "we will continue pressure methods to rid the county of those having less than two years' seniority in Flint factories." It would be illuminating to learn just what "pressure methods" are to be employed and what legal authority, if any, will be utilized to put them into effect.

It is a travesty on American civilization when families can be drummed out of a state by the very authority which, in past years, urgently invited them in to help build up the commonwealth. Under what precepts of government will these people be forced to leave their homes? Certainly, not under the constitution of the United States.

Pathos: The two-faced oriental diplomatist who must save them both.

There are those in the navy who feel we should build more dirigibles against the possibility of war. But could we lure the enemy into the things?

It's no use upsetting the dears. The wise film mother will scissor out all reference to young Coogan's plight before leaving a newspaper about the home.

VALUABLE IMPERFECTION

Fulton and DeKalb county units of the R. O. T. C. marching in review before Major General George Van Horn Moseley, in Piedmont park recently, brought to mind a contrast as they swung, loose-hipped and rangy, across the parade ground.

Here and there a rifle slanted slightly out of line, a cap sat off center, someone got out of step for a few strides. In Germany and Italy these things do not happen. They just don't. Ranks become machines. Youth becomes a cog in the wheel of militarism.

So that it was pleasant to stand and watch those rifles sag out of line, to glimpse those off-center caps which bespoke an independence which would not be downed by mere inclusion in a rank of soldiers. It can happen here.

It may be that some day those youngsters will have to fight. All hope that will not come true, but the possibility remains. That they were not the perfect military machine is heartening. That is the American way. There is no necessity for it. At West Point you stand and see faultless ranks passing in review. That is to be expected and is desirable, for these are the men who have to lead and to lead they have to achieve perfection.

In time of need, though, those youngsters whose rifles were not at quite the correct angle will be the soldiers who shoot a little straighter, perhaps. Those with caps slightly askew will be those who can assume command when the need arises and when the thoroughly drilled West Pointer has gone down in the face of fire.

In early America the lesson was learned and taught. Loosely strung riflemen of the frontier smashed the drilled ranks of British troops. Americans have been the only people who have cracked the ranks of the Scottish Black Watch. Britain heeded the lesson later, and one now finds a similar freedom in her army ranks. It is a freedom which does not appear in perfect drill, but battles have never been won by parades before a major general. Generally speaking, there won't be a major general around when bullets fly.

WELCOME PARADOX

A strange paradoxical twist, likely to happen only among free peoples, was recently given to a prosecution for criminal libel in the court of general sessions in New York city. Robert E. Edmondson, a well-known anti-Semitic pamphleteer, had been indicted because of his tirades against the Jewish religion. The complainant was Mayor LaGuardia in his capacity as chief magistrate.

After many postponements because of legal technicalities, the case came up for trial. But it was disclosed that two organizations, the American Jewish Committee and the American Jewish Congress, had intervened, asking dismissal of the indictment on the ground that such actions tended to restrict freedom of speech.

It was further declared that the proper remedy for ignorance and false doctrine was not suppression, but enlightenment. And the words of Justice Brandeis, of the supreme court of the United States—"the remedy is more speech, not enforced silence"—were employed to support the contention that the charges should be dropped.

When the libeled enter court to ask for dismissal of the indictment on the ground that a prosecution of it would be a restriction on freedom of speech, it is a wholesome sign that the liberties of the people are in no immediate danger of abrogation. In this particular case it is also an example of tolerance—the kind of tolerance necessary for the continued happiness of all Americans.

OPEN DOOR OR TRAP DOOR

An illuminating commentary on Japan's maintenance of the Open Door in conquered provinces is contained in an article by Carl Crow in the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Crow, an unquestioned authority on the Chinese scene, has traced the closing of the trade door in Manchuria.

Today, Japan insists that the Open Door policy will be maintained in the sections of present-day China over which it now holds sway. This may be so, since funds for rehabilitation and for development of the region are probably not available in Japan.

Whether these protestations may be true or not, Mr. Crow cites instances of an appearance of the same policies followed in Manchuria in the city of Shanghai. Only the most sanguine will believe Japan intends using the Open Door for anything more or less than a trap door for any foreign capital invested in China during the period of occupation.

Wealth today entails so many hazards, the alert can man will soon be hooking suckers with a get-poor-quick scheme.

The more hopeful see a brighter outlook for peace than Europe has enjoyed in years—and this in spite of the Fuehrer and five-suit bridge.

Again a crop of corn is to be planted on the roof of a New York skyscraper. Iowa, where the stuff grows tall, will have to try harder.

Win or lose, a war that brings Japan to the point of utter exhaustion will have effected her noble purpose, viz., pacifying the orient.

Editorial of the Day

MARTIAL LAW

(From the Charlotte News.)

The American Civil Liberties Union, which is sometimes accused of being dominated by Communists, may have its own purposes in mind when it urges a federal statute defining such terms as "emergency" and "riot" and "insurrection" and rigidly specifying the circumstances in which the Governor of a state may order out the militia.

But it would be hard to quarrel with it when it proposes utterly to abolish the authority of governors to issue a declaration of "martial law." This practice has been grossly and notoriously abused in such cases as those of Huey Long in Louisiana, Alfalfa Bill Murray and Jack Walton in Oklahoma, and Eugene Talmadge in Georgia. It is so commonly used that most people think, indeed, that it is involved in ordering out the militia. But in fact it goes much further than that and suspends the jurisdiction of the civil courts and makes militia officers into judges. And that plainly violates our whole theory of government. For that matter, in truth, it violates a prohibition contained in most of the state constitutions—a prohibition, however, which has nowhere been implemented by statute.

Survey Notes Rise in Sentiment for Federal Spending Since Roosevelt Fireside Chat; But Five Per Cent Change Leaves Large Majority Opposed.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Although public opinion still does not favor the New Deal theory of spending our way out of depression, there has been some increase in sentiment for federal pump-priming since President Roosevelt's fireside chat April 14. At that time the President proposed the five-billion dollar spending and lending program which is now being debated by Congress.

Before the fireside broadcast, Institute surveys found 63 per cent of the electorate against further increase in government spending. A new survey, taken after the President's broadcast, shows that opposition has dropped to 58 per cent today.

58 PER CENT OF VOTERS OPPOSE FEDERAL SPENDING
The change may be due to a number of factors, including the persuasive powers of the President, the general publicity given to the spending program, and the fact that the business depression continues to be severe. But although opposition to spending has declined somewhat, the majority continues to echo the view expressed by a typical voter in Ohio who said: "We tried spending before, and we're right back in a depression."

In measuring the trend of sentiment the Institute has conducted four separate surveys using the same question: "Do you think government spending should be increased to help get business out of its present slump?"

Following is the vote on each occasion:

Increase Spending?	Yes	No
December, 1937	39% 61%
February, 1938	37 63
March	37 63
TODAY	42 58

NINE MILLION SETS TUNE IN ON ADDRESS
The last survey was begun shortly after the President's fireside chat.

Side chat. The Institute estimates that approximately nine million of the nation's 25 million radio sets were tuned in on the speech, and the Institute included about the same proportion of Republicans as Democrats.

As a special feature, the survey separated voters into two groups: those who heard the President's talk, and those who did not. A comparison of the attitude toward spending in the two groups shows that (1) among persons who heard the speech, sentiment is now almost evenly divided on the spending program; (2) among those who did not hear the speech sentiment is still definitely against spending.

Vote of Persons Who Heard President's Fireside Chat.
Favor spending 49%
Oppose spending 51%
Vote of Persons Who Did NOT Hear the Fireside Chat.
Favor spending 40%
Oppose spending 60%

REPUBLICANS OPPOSE SPENDING PROGRAM
Virtually no Republicans have been converted to the spending program since it began receiving publicity. The survey found that their opposition has increased slightly, with nearly nine out of every ten expressing disapproval. The converts are chiefly Democrats, most of whom express the view that "if business won't spend the government has to."

Every Institute survey on the question of spending has found the same themes running through the comments or remarks of voters interviewed. The minority who favor spending say that putting money into circulation, and similar legislation which has had the cotton mill executives howling, were simply smoke screens. After all you can't fool a Philadelphia reporter.

Why Not Fester In Peace?
About all the northern writers have left to do is come out and suggest that it might have been better if Lincoln had let the Confederacy go on and secede. Then we could have festered down here in peace without disturbing the rest of these United States as they march on to glory without the dragging weight of backward Dixie.

Well, anyway, it's nice to know these things about us. A little enlightenment should be good for our depraved souls.
But I'm afraid I won't have time to read many more of them. What with spring coming on I'm going to be pretty busy horsewhipping my slaves.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.
From The Constitution of Tuesday, May 6, 1913:
"The city aldermen named by Alderman John E. McClelland in his 'grat' charges to Mayor James G. Woodcock and council members were generated by the problem committee in its report submitted through Judge John S. Candler yesterday afternoon."

And Fifty Years Ago.
From The Constitution of Sunday, May 6, 1888:
"Fighting," said a gentleman last night, "is expensive luxury. The truth is that a poor man can not well afford to have a street fight in Atlanta."

Hard To Find Original Libels.
There wasn't much original stuff in the series because it's getting pretty hard to find any original libel to hang on this section. For a good many years bright young men from up yonder have been packing up enough provisions for a two weeks' journey into these wilds and heading down here to find out the truth.

What most of them finally get into is a remarkable collection of anecdotes that appear to have originated with Harriet Beecher Stowe. It seems that the writers spend all their time down here vacillating between Tobacco Road and the CIO headquarters in Atlanta.

It is always interesting to read the southern fiction which northern editors like to run as fact, however. Otherwise we might never find out what a remarkably depraved and backward group of citizens we really are.

Never Suspected The Awful Truth.
For years I never suspected that the south is simply teeming with people who are chained to the looms of our mills, toiling away in dank holes without ever drawing a cent of pay except in mill store coupons. After reading what the great minds in the north have discovered, it becomes obvious however, that the entire south is probably a little dirt here and there in government, but it took a northern magazine writer to find out that the entire legislature is in the pay of the textile interests. I guess little things like the 40-hour bill, the bill which was de-

World's Window

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
Prague at Bay.

NEW YORK—A citizen of the Czechoslovakian republic openly challenges the government of his country by saying that he and a group of his followers owe allegiance to the head of a foreign state and the man is allowed to go scot-free. This is what has just happened in what has always been considered the model democratic country of Europe. Herr Konrad Heinlein, leader of the German minority in Czechoslovakia, has opted for Hitler and threatened that the day of reckoning is drawing near.

What is he doing? He means, apparently, that the Reich will do with Czechoslovakia as it has just done with Austria and that upon annexation there will be the same ruthless and barbarian treatment of Czechoslovakia's minorities as there stood for the independence of their country as has befallen the patriotic Austrians.

That the Prague government has not arrested Heinlein forthwith is due to the fact that terrorism would flare up at once and Hitler would in that case be furnished with a pretext to intervene immediately, restore order, prevent bloodshed, etc., repeat the story of Austria all over again.

Heinlein demanded absolute autonomy for the Sudeten German minority in Czechoslovakia, the introduction of the Nazi Weltanschauung, that is to say the anti-Jewish laws and an application of the race theories.

Let us imagine that Mexico has a Communist government and that propaganda is being slipped across the border brings about a widespread Communist sentiment in Texas, Louisiana and Arizona and that the governors of these states demand that their provinces be run henceforth along communistic lines with close ties being established with the Mexican government.

Now would the American nation feel about that? And if the governors of these aforementioned federal states then threatened and said to Washington: Unless you give in, unless we get what we want there will be a day of reckoning and that very soon, what would we do about it?

That is the position Prague is in today. Only Prague is not able to resist. Prague is infinitely weaker than Berlin. Berlin has Prague in a vise as it is. German armies surround Czechoslovakia on three sides. Germany has an ally in Poland and another ally in Hungary. Both these countries want a slice of Czechoslovakia. If they get those slices there will be nothing left of Czechoslovakia.

France and Russia.
Prague has but one hope: France and the Soviet Union. Both these countries have solemnly promised to come to Prague's aid if Czech independence is threatened with armed force.

It is extremely doubtful if Russia can come to the aid of Czechoslovakia. In the first place she has no common frontier with that country. She would have to invade a third country in order to bring about a junction between the Red forces and the Czechoslovak Republic. Will Russia risk a war with Poland and with Germany for Czechoslovakia's sake?

Yes, if France also comes in. But France is under British tutelage. The British will give no guarantee to Prague. In London they do not think the game worth the candle apparently. By refusing that guarantee to Prague, the British government has virtually given Hitler the cue to go right ahead and try to overwhelm Czechoslovakia with the least possible fuss.

The last possible fuss, that is, split the country by means of propaganda into a set of rival camps. Many Czechoslovaks are already beginning to doubt whether there is any use fighting back. They say we are lost unless we give in. Let us make peace with Hitler. Peace with Hitler means giving up Czechoslovak independence. In the meantime German pressure accentuates each day.

You Can't Tell Whether He's Good Or Bad if He Never Is Turned Loose

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

If a man gets drunk every week end, and is sick for several days after each debauch, there may be a day or two in each week where he is neither drunk nor sick, but he will never feel wholly normal. If a spendthrift persuades his employer to give him every second month's pay in advance, he will spend neither more nor less in the course of a year, but he will have fat months and lean months and never experience the kind of living justified by his income.

We hear much about the return of normal times in America but nobody knows what normal times are. We have not seen normal times in 24 years.

Perhaps conditions were normal when the World War began. But soon thereafter we began to feel the effect of war purchases. The Allies exhausted their credit and then began to borrow billions from America. Other billions were spent by our own government. The people loaned their accumulated wealth to the government, and it was given back to them in payment for labor and supplies.

We had boom times; but it wasn't true prosperity, for we were spending and wasting borrowed money.

When the war spending stopped, we had abnormally bad time while paying the piper.

Then came the era of "rehabilitation loans," when every hard up nation in Europe got millions of American money and spent a great portion of it here. Even the bankrupt nations of South America issued new bonds to get their share of the easy money. And here at home, everybody borrowed who could, to build or gamble or make a big show, and we had a glorious boom.

The depression that followed was abnormal. The recovery, achieved by spending more borrowed money was abnormal. And every up and down that followed was abnormal, for each was caused by "management" and not by the natural functioning of economic laws.

Normal times are the kind that result when all are free to follow their chosen occupation to get a living, and buy and sell as they can, without other restraint or benefit than fair and free competition and the law of supply and demand.

Nobody knows whether such times would be better or worse than the present, and we aren't likely to know in this generation. Management has become the economic fashion the world over and there seems no stopping place short of bankruptcy or Utopia.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"There the common sense of most shall hold the fretful realms in awe
And the kindly earth shall slumber, lapped in universal law."

When is a contradiction not a contradiction? When it is your own, seems to be the answer. We, for example, think that those who say "nothing is worse than war" and nevertheless refuse to identify themselves with "peace at any price" are guilty of a contradiction. But some of these think that we who believe in what they call "peace by force" are guilty of a greater contradiction. They say the idea of peace by coercion has a contradiction at its heart. Answering up for our side, we offer in evidence the municipal policemen. The only sort of peace that isn't an anarchist's fantasy or a sentimentalist's dream is peace by law, the peace maintained by organization and some sort of force, whether the force be physical, economic or psychological, whether it be put into use or merely held in reserve. We know of no instance in history where peace has been maintained by mere appeal to sweetness and light.

Agreeing with this column that most people need a certain amount of pressure, suggestion and leading to get themselves properly educated, the Sumter, S. C., Daily Item warns that "the progressive education fad . . . is sweeping through some public school systems like an epidemic of mumps or measles." The editor of the Item is evidently a gentleman and a Latin scholar. He knows, with Webster, that the word "education" comes from the Latin verb "educere," meaning to lead forth, not from the verb "educare," meaning to feed. And that even if it didn't, it ought to be "I am proud to say," a proud father writes, "that my son is being allowed to choose his own college with not a single word of suggestion or direction from me."

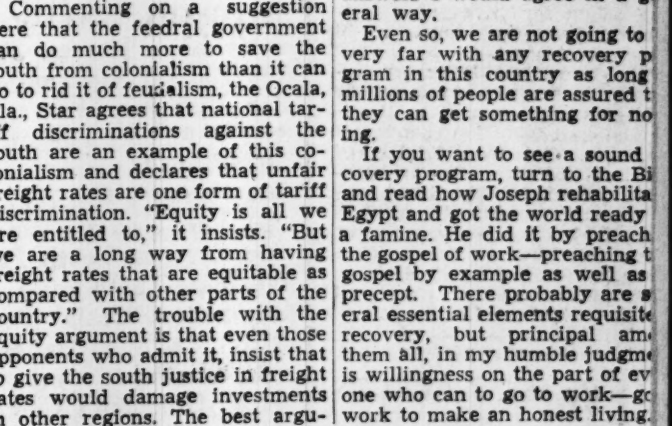

This, to our way of thinking is the sort of pride that can lead to destruction. Now in this world can a boy be expected to choose wisely as between different colleges when he can know little or nothing about them when he has no experience on which to base judgment. He'll probably select the college with the best football team or one to which some of his friends are going. Maybe he'll choose well, but it will be sheer luck if he does. He is entitled to his father's attention and advice.

Commenting on a suggestion here that the federal government can do much more to save the south from colonialism than it can do to rid it of feudalism, the Ocala, Fla., Star agrees that national tariff discriminations against the south are an example of this colonialism and declares that unfair freight rates are one form of tariff discrimination. "Equity is all we are entitled to," it insists. "But we are a long way from having freight rates that are equitable as compared with other parts of the country." The trouble with the equity argument is that even those opponents who admit it, insist that to give the south justice in freight rates would damage investments in other regions. The best argument for equity is that it is the only way to get the south out of its colonial state.

Even so, we are not going to very far with any recovery program in this country as long as millions of people are assured that they can get something for nothing.

If you want to see a sound recovery program, turn to the Bible and read how Joseph rehabilitated Egypt and got the world ready for a famine. He did it by preaching the gospel of work—preaching the gospel by example as well as precept. There probably are several essential elements requisite for recovery, but principal among them all, in my humble judgment, is willingness on the part of every one who can to go to work—to work to make an honest living.

Mention of Hard, Wooden Benches Again Appears, But He Hears of Taxation Problem From Austrian Girl.

By RALPH MCGILL.
ARTICLE NO. NINE.

LONDON, England.—(By Mail).—Coming out of Vienna, on a long ride across most of Austria, Germany, Belgium, the channel and part of England, I rode third-class on the hard, wooden benches.

A soldier talked his little English with me. A German girl, coming to England to study, talked a bit. A German boy from a work camp, recalled some of his school English. An Austrian girl, who had worked in England, talked very good English.

"She was bitter. She was a Nazi. I think her story is interesting because it helps explain, better than anything else, what happened in Austria and why the workers and the farmers of Austria turned toward the slogan, Bread and Work."

To these people I was a tourist in a holiday. They had no idea I wrote for newspapers. She had come home to vote, this Austrian girl. She said, answering questions:

"I am sorry about my country. I have lost my nationality. But I am glad, fiercely glad, Hitler has come to Austria. Maybe I can go now. I have worked in England. My sister has worked in Italy. There was no work in Austria. Our father was a farmer."

"If he had a cow he had to pay 10 groschen a kilo for salt. When he sold the cow he got about 10 groschen a pound for the meat. A groschen is one-hundredth of the Austrian shilling, which was worth about 22 cents. He sold more for salt to give his cow than he could get for meat of the cow."

"Tell me some more about it," said.

"AX EVERY GOAT, CHICKEN, COW."

"They taxed every goat, every chicken, every cow and horse. If there was a horse," she added bitterly, "I have been there when they came around and put on the ax. They didn't care. Every chicken was taxed. Can you imagine it?"

"I shook my head. 'What else?' 'If you went to pick berries in the great fields, which belonged to the state or the big owners, you were taxed according to the amount you picked. I have known them to pick all day and not make more than a shilling for it. 'If you picked berries and made yourself some wine, they taxed each bottle of it. They looked under the floors and under beds for things to tax. Many people killed themselves then,' she said. 'What else did they complain of?"

"Well," she said, "they reduced the taxes on automobiles, which only the very rich had. And they put a tax on bicycles, which only the poor could afford."

She sat there in her corner, her fingers stained with the chemicals of whatever work she did, and as very bitter.

"My father," she said, "has not been able to make anything on his farm. My brother has not had a job in eight years. There is no government relief. We all were desperately poor, so desperate that I sent a little every week. So did my sister."

Her teeth were bad. She was small and not well-nourished.

They are the ones who will say, as a hotel porter did, "it is our turn now."

'Murder' Mother Confronts Son With Death Tale

WALLA WALLA, Wash., May 5. (AP)—Mrs. Mary Eleanor Smith, aged convict who allegedly linked her life-terminer son with four "perfect" murders, confronted him in prison today with her grisly account of the slaying of James Eugene Bassett, one of the asserted victims.

The granite-visaged son, De Castro Earl Mayer, 43, who had laughed at the previous attempts of officers to pin a murder charge on him, never batted an eye.

"Ma, do you feel all right?" officers quoted Mayer as asking Mrs. Smith after she had finished her bloody story.

"Yeah, I feel fine," she asserted, "better than I have for years."

"Do you ever see things flying around in the air—hallucinations and things?"

"No, I feel fine and I am not insane."

"Has someone been talking about this and suggesting things to you?"

"No, they're not suggesting. This is the truth. You don't bear me any hard feelings about this, do you, Earl?"

"No, I think you're crazy."

The officers said these, the mother's statements, concerned the disappearance of "Dave Randall," who allegedly was buried in a stone quarry near Pocatello, Idaho; Mrs. John Petrie, also known as Mabel (Mrs. Ernest) La Casse, of Butte, Mont., who disappeared in 1921, and Ole Larson, of Anacosta, Mont., who vanished in 1923.

On the current voyage, which began at Charleston last Saturday, he has enjoyed his favorite sport in Samana Bay, Dominican Republic, and off Sombrero Island, their British possession east of the Virgin group.

should be a lesson to the democracies to check up and see to their death as the only way out. "They have applied within a few days all they learned in five years in Germany," he said.

ROOSEVELT TO FISH OFF CAICOS ISLAND

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 5. (AP)—President Roosevelt was en route aboard the cruiser Philadelphia today on a 21-hour run from San Juan, Puerto Rico, to Caicos Island, in the Bahamas, 90 miles north of Haiti, for some more fishing tomorrow.

On the current voyage, which began at Charleston last Saturday, he has enjoyed his favorite sport in Samana Bay, Dominican Republic, and off Sombrero Island, their British possession east of the Virgin group.

should be a lesson to the democracies to check up and see to their death as the only way out. "They have applied within a few days all they learned in five years in Germany," he said.

N. Y. FAIR COURIER TO ARRIVE TODAY

Rivers Will Get Gold Key to Festivities.

A gold key to New York's World Fair will be presented to Governor Rivers when C. G. Currier, one of 48 emissaries visiting various state capitols for the fair, arrives in Atlanta today.

The courier will be met at 10:30 o'clock this morning at Lindbergh drive and Piedmont road by a delegation of Atlantans, headed by Belton E. Jennings, of the Atlanta Motor Club, and Mrs. John K. Otley, chairman of the Women's Advisory Committee of the fair for Georgia.

A small motorcade will lead the courier to the state capitol, where at 11 o'clock, he will present the key to the Governor. Next, the courier will visit Mayor Hartsfield and issue an invitation for Atlantans to attend the fair. He will remain in the city two days, following which he will pay visits to other principal Georgia towns.

APPROVAL AWAITED FOR RAIL RATE RISE

Pulpwood and Road-Building Materials Will Be Exempted Under Plan.

Approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission is being awaited for a general 10 per cent increase in railroad freight rates on general intrastate shipments, it was revealed yesterday.

James A. Perry, member of the Georgia Public Service Commission, said Chairman Walter McDonald and Commissioners Perry T. Knight and Matt McWhorter voted for the increased rates. Perry and Jud P. Wilhoit, chairman of the commission under the Talmadge administration, opposed the increase.

Perry said pulpwood, sand, gravel and other road-building material are exempted from the increase, and will move under present intrastate rates.

Perry also announced the Seaboard Air Line railroad had been authorized to discontinue trains 32 and 33 between Atlanta and Birmingham, and trains 13 and 14 between Americus and Savannah. The railroad claimed losses on operations of the trains.

The commission also ordered the Macon, Dublin and Savannah railroad, a subsidiary of the Seaboard railroad, to cease "arbitrary" rates and scale charges to standard level.

"HOW BIG IS A GALLON?"

"I thought they'd given me 12 for 10 when I saw how far a load of gas takes that new Hudson 112. And the same goes for the extra dollars I got for my old car!"

Yes, sir! That's the way we're trading these days. And when we deliver a Hudson 112, we're delivering the car that tops the lowest priced leaders in room, smooth performance, low cost operation. Come and see for yourself at J. W. Goldsmith, Inc., 58 North Ave., N. E., or any Hudson showroom. Open evenings.

Proper Training For Youth Urged To Save Ideals

Preservation of democracy and American ideals of freedom depends on the proper training of young people, Atlanta leaders declared yesterday as celebration of "Youth Week" entered into its final phase.

Citizenship Day was observed yesterday with a drive to register all eligible young people as voters. David Yarn, schoolboy mayor for the day, visited city institutions and saw the municipal machinery in motion.

The week will close today with Recognition Day. Letters were sent out to heads of more than 800 of Atlanta's leading business and industrial organizations asking them to give recognition to the young people in their employ.

W. W. Snow, chairman of the Youth Week committee, asked the business leaders to discuss problems of business and government with their young people and their help and co-operation in meeting them.

Young "Mayor" David Yarn spent an hour at the city hall with Mayor Hartsfield, meeting heads of city departments and council. He visited the police station and sat in with Recorder John L. Cone.

SEABOARD ALLOWED TO DROP 4 TRAINS

Two Atlanta-Birmingham, Two Americus-Savannah Schedules Affected.

Discontinuance of two Seaboard Air Line railway trains between Atlanta and Birmingham and two trains between Americus and Savannah had the approval today of the Georgia Public Service Commission.

The commission granted permission for discontinuance of train No. 32, leaving Birmingham at 11:30 p. m. and arriving in Atlanta at 5:40 a. m., and train No. 33, leaving Atlanta at 11:05 p. m. and arriving in Birmingham at 5:20 a. m.

The company claimed an annual loss of $69,715 on operation of these trains. H. E. Pleasants, assistant general passenger agent, said permission still must be obtained from the Alabama public service commission before the trains are abandoned.

Abandonment of these two trains leaves two round trips daily between Birmingham and Atlanta on the Seaboard.

Trains No. 13 and 14 will be discontinued on the Americus-Savannah line, leaving one round trip daily by the Seaboard on the route.

BRITON WILL CONFER WITH BAPTISTS HERE

Plans for World Meeting in 1939 To Be Discussed by Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke.

Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, of London, England, general secretary of the Baptist World Alliance, will arrive in Atlanta today for a series of conferences in connection with plans for the Baptist world meeting to be held here in July, 1939, to which delegates from 60 nations will come. Dr. Louie D. Newton, general chairman of the Atlanta committee, announced yesterday.

After a day of sightseeing and rest, Dr. Rushbrooke will begin tomorrow's work with a breakfast at the Biltmore hotel, at which Governor Rivers, Mayor Hartsfield and Charles F. Palmer, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, will be present. After conferring with these officials, he will meet committees from white and negro Baptist ministers' conferences at 10 o'clock in the First Baptist church for a discussion of details relating to the conference. He will speak five times in Atlanta Sunday. At 9 o'clock he will be at the Druid Hills Baptist church and at 11 o'clock at the First Baptist church. At 3 o'clock he will broadcast over a nationwide radio hookup. At 3:30 o'clock he will address students at Spelman College, and at 8 o'clock will preach to members of the Ebenezer Baptist church. After addressing a joint session of Baptist ministers at the First Baptist church Monday morning, he will depart for Richmond for the meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention.

JONES IN COLLEGE TRUSTEESHIP RACE

Atlanta Attorney Only Princeton Entrant From South.

Robert H. Jones Jr., Atlanta attorney, is one of five candidates for the post of alumni trustee-at-large of Princeton University, it was announced yesterday. He is the only candidate from the south.

Jones, a Princeton graduate of the class of 1906, later received the law degree from the University of Georgia. President of Princeton Alumni Association of Georgia since 1929, he is also chairman of President Dodds' program for the Georgia district.

He is a member of the law firm of Jones, Fuller & Clapp. Polls for the election will close at Princeton at 6 o'clock Thursday night, June 16.

HUGH HOWELL SPEAKS OVER WSB TONIGHT

Hugh Howell, Atlanta attorney and candidate for Governor, will make another campaign radio address here tonight over Station WSB at 8:30 p. m. (central daylight time.)

Howell, only candidate for Governor to qualify so far for the September 14 Democratic primary, said his speech would include a discussion of the state pension set-up.

Heavy Rainfall, Thunderstorm Strike Atlanta

The city's second severe thunderstorm within a week brought a marked temperature drop yesterday on the wings of a 27-mile wind from the southwest.

The storm, which broke with sudden fury at about 10 o'clock yesterday morning, resulted in .3 inch of rain within a few minutes. Tree limbs were snapped off, and transformer fuses were blown out.

Heavy rain and strong winds were also reported at Hapeville and College Park. A power company substation at Bremen was temporarily out of service.

The storm drove temperatures down from 85 degrees to 71 degrees. The low reading yesterday was 65 degrees.

The forecast for today is partly cloudy and slightly warmer. Temperatures are due to range between 58 degrees and 80 degrees.

PUBLIC TO GREET DEKALB CHAMBER

Arkwright, McKinney, Chandler on All-Day Panthersville Booster Program.

A public meeting of the newly organized DeKalb County Chamber of Agriculture and Commerce will be held tomorrow in Panthersville. It will be part of the small city's community day program. Charles D. McKinney, chairman of the Decatur citizens' committee, announced plans for the meeting yesterday.

The business meeting will assemble for an hour from 1:30 p. m., on the grounds and in the building of the Southwest DeKalb High school. Every farmer, manufacturer and businessman in the section has been invited. Women are included.

R. N. Jones, chairman of the DeKalb County community day activities, has announced that an old-fashioned barbecue dinner will be served on the school grounds at midday. Morning and evening recreational features will be stressed.

The program of the Chamber of Agriculture and Commerce will consist of an address of welcome by Roy Leathers, solicitor general of DeKalb county, and a response by Charles A. Matthews, county commissioner, following which Scott Chandler, mayor of Decatur, will speak on "How Businessmen of DeKalb County Can Help the Farming Interests of the County."

Others who will make brief speeches include R. N. Jones, professor of agriculture at Southwest DeKalb County High school; Preston S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company; K. D. Hovington, official of the Consolidated Quarries, Lithonia; Legare Davis, public relations counsel of the Atlanta Gas Light Company, and Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott College.

SENATE EXPECTED TO VOTE QUICKLY ON AID FOR RAILS

Opposed Legislation Would Permit RFC to Make Carrier Loans.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—The senate passage of emergency financial aid for the railroads in prospect, Chairman Wagner, Democrat, New York, of the senate banking committee, said tonight.

He told reporters he expected opposition to legislation approved by his committee today, at legislation would authorize Reconstruction Finance Corporation to:

1. Make loans to the railroads for the purchase of equipment, loans to be secured by the equipment itself.

2. Re-employment aid. Make loans to the carriers for maintenance, on condition that 75 percent of the amount advanced would be used to re-employ maintenance workers laid off between December 1 and May 1 this year. The bill would suspend until June 30, 1939, an existing law which forbids the R. F. C. to lend money to a railroad until the Interstate Commerce Commission has certified that the road is not in need of reorganization.

3. Prospective Earnings. Many roads could not obtain certification, Chairman Jesse Jones, of the R. F. C., told the banking committee today, but they might be able ultimately to repay federal loan.

The new law would require the Interstate Commerce Commission to certify the R. F. C. to find that prospective earnings of a borrower are a reasonable assurance of repayment.

ones, urging quick passage of legislation, said the R. F. C. might lose some of the money it advanced for work projects, but the corporation would expect to recover most of it. He added: "If we lose some of it, we will have value received."

He expressed the opinion it would be better to re-employ the maintenance workers on jobs for which they were trained than to port them on the WPA rolls.

GEORGE V WARNED GERMANY IN 1912

British Documents Reveal King Acted in 1912.

LONDON, May 5.—(AP)—Publication today of secret documents the British foreign office disclosed that King George V warned Germany two years before the war that Great Britain would aid France and Russia in attack.

The manuscripts disclosed a letter late King wrote to Sir Edward Grey, then the British foreign secretary, in December, 1912, informed Sir Edward that the king had told Prince Henry, of Prussia, brother of the German emperor, that "in the event of Germany and Austria going to war with Russia and France" Great Britain "undoubtedly" would aid attacked nations.

RIVERS TO CLOSE FRATERNAL WEEK

Governor Will Broadcast, Then Feast, as 300,000 Georgians Celebrate.

Approximately 300,000 members of fraternal orders throughout Georgia tomorrow will close the celebration of National Fraternalism Week, which began Monday, with banquets, dances and get-together meetings.

Climaxing the day will be a speech by Governor Rivers, to be broadcast at 7 o'clock tomorrow night over Station WSB, sponsors said yesterday.

A broadcasting truck will be parked on a lot at Tenth street and Hemphill avenue, N. W., from which a special program will be heard beginning at 6:30 o'clock, it was announced. Mayor Pro Tem Robert Carpenter will be principal speaker and C. L. Matthews, commissioner of DeKalb county, will act as master of ceremonies.

Following his address, Governor Rivers and his wife will be guests of honor at a banquet to be held by the Georgia Fraternal Congress at 7:30 o'clock in the Biltmore hotel.

RADIO'S AMATEURS PRAISED BY EXPERT

They Made Industry What It Is Today, Zenith Executive Says.

Amateurs of the nation made the radio industry what it is today and it will be the lay students who will find new slants on mental telepathy, asserted Commander E. F. McDonald Jr., of Chicago, Ill., president of the Zenith Radio Corporation, in Atlanta for a one-day visit yesterday.

Pointing to the innovations which have made radio a necessity in most homes instead of a luxury, the 51-year-old executive said he believed amateurs brought the new industry to its present place. He thinks all interested young men should be given a chance to tinker with transmitters.

"That is the principal reason I have been so interested in getting mental telepathy before the public," he explained. "Not that I have any convictions on the subject, but that I believe with the laymen of the country thinking about the subject, psychologists and experts in the mental telepathy field will get many new ideas and that the study of it will be perfected."

"A weekly radio program has proved that people are interested in the subject. We have received more than 1,000,000 letters in a few months."

Commander McDonald, a naval reservist, has been in "cold water" more than once in his career. He led the McMillan Arctic expedition in 1923 and 1925 and was within 11 degrees of the North Pole once.

Admiral Richard Byrd accompanied him on the latter trip. No newcomer to Atlanta, he served as a special deputy here in 1906 when rioting broke out. At the time, he was displaying a new model automobile and the then Sheriff Nelms kept him in service for a week, making him use the car to carry emergency squads about the city.

One of the organizers of the National Association of Broadcasters in 1922, he is a director in a Chicago daily newspaper and has a hand in the affairs of half-a-dozen other businesses. He thinks "television is surely coming, but right now is just around the corner—for the stock salesman only."

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—The senate confirmed today the nomination of Roy L. Nolen as postmaster at Montgomery, Ala.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR MRS. CANNON

North Carolinian, Relative of Atlantans, Died in Concord Wednesday.

Funeral services for Mrs. James William Cannon, 81, widow of the founder of the Cannon Mills Company, who died Wednesday at her home in Concord, N. C., will be held today at the Presbyterian church in Concord, with Dr. J. C. Rowan officiating. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery, beside her husband.

Mrs. Cannon was the mother of Mrs. Clark Howell Sr., the grandmother of Mrs. Clark Howell, wife of the president and publisher of The Constitution, and the great-grandmother of Clark Howell Jr. and William Barrett Howell, of Atlanta.

The former Miss Mary Ella Bost of Cabarrus county, North Carolina, she was married in 1875 to James William Cannon, who later founded the Cannon Mills Company, one of the nation's largest industrial concerns.

Widely known for her philanthropies, she had recently donated the site of the new Cabarrus county hospital, and replaced a burned building, at the Jackson Training School some years ago.

JURY WILL QUIZ 30 ON GRAFT TODAY

Another Special Session To Be Held at 10 A. M.

After launching its investigation into law enforcement graft yesterday, the new Fulton county grand jury will hold another special session at 10 o'clock this morning to question about 30 witnesses.

The opening session was conducted yesterday morning by Solicitor General John A. Boykin, relieved by Special Prosecutor E. E. Andrews in the afternoon.

Andrews announced that the graft investigation would be pushed with all possible speed and that "nothing would deter the grand jurors in their attempts to get at the bottom of law enforcement graft."

"We have information that several former bootleggers are getting into the lottery business," Andrews said. "But while we keep an eye on them, we are not going to be turned aside from our investigation of corrupt law enforcement officials."

"Any grand jury check-up on activities in the lottery racket will come in due time," he added.

EXPRESS MERGER ECONOMY OUTLINED

Would Save $360,000 Annually, Owens Says.

W. W. Owens, of Atlanta, a vice president of the Railway Express Agency, yesterday testified before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington an annual saving of $360,000 would result from dissolution of the Southeastern Express Agency and acquisition of its business by the Railway Express Agency.

He said his company would take over 1,100 stations of Southeastern express without any change in rates or any interruption in service.

Owens testified during commission hearings on an application under which Southeastern Express would be dissolved, its stockholders paid face value of their holdings, and its business turned over to Railway Express.

DR. M. D. COLLINS SEEKS RE-ELECTION

Voters Must Pay Poll Taxes Before Sunday, Says Yeomans in Ruling.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. Georgia's political pulse beat slowly yesterday.

Candidates and potential candidates for the September 14 primary apparently were sounding sentiment and doing all their political tickling quietly. The June 1 qualifying deadline drew a day closer with only one new entry.

Dr. M. D. Collins, third-term state school superintendent, paid his $250 to Mrs. Fred A. Stowe, secretary of the Democratic executive committee as a candidate for renomination. He has no opponent to date.

On the voters' side things picked up a bit when Attorney General M. J. Neomans ruled those eligible to cast ballots in the primary, and the November 8 general election, must pay poll taxes due before Sunday.

Races for the state assembly appear to be the only exception to the lull in the politics. Four candidates have announced for the house of representatives from Baldwin county.

WINS $500 AWARD.

ROME, Ga., May 5.—A Floyd superior court jury yesterday awarded a $500 verdict to Mrs. J. M. Wilson in her damage suit against the city of Rome. Plaintiff alleged she slipped on a brick sidewalk partially covered with damp moss, breaking her leg.

POPE, RUM RUNNER, GETS WORK CAMP

Man Indicted for Bribery Fails in Appeal Due to Time Limit.

Arthur M. Pope, recently named in a Fulton county grand jury indictment as the man who paid off two city policemen for "protection," was sent to a county work camp yesterday as a result of a charge placed against him by one of the officers.

Pope was convicted of possession of whisky March 14 in Fulton criminal court and given a 12-month sentence on an accusation by City Policeman Ed Mashburn, who in turn was named as the recipient of a $40 bribe from Pope October 15 not to arrest him.

Following his conviction, Pope filed for an appeal but the time limit yesterday had expired and Judge Jesse M. Wood ordered Pope to be sent to camp.

The accusation against Pope charged he was arrested in a car with 54 gallons of whisky July 23 and again with 21 gallons of liquor September 9, last year, by Mashburn.

Another indictment, returned by the past grand jury, charged Pope gave City Policeman K. A. Wooster a bribe consisting of "$20, a bucket of lard and one sugared ham."

JAMES R. JONES, 82, DIES IN HAPEVILLE

Funeral Services Will Be Held Today.

James Reese Jones, 82, retired Fayette county farmer, died yesterday morning at his home, 3688 Forest avenue, Hapeville, after an illness of several months.

Funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the First Baptist church, Hapeville, with the Rev. Z. E. Barron officiating. Burial will be in Antioch churchyard cemetery, Fayette county, under the direction of Brandon-Camp.

Surviving are his wife; seven daughters, Mrs. G. W. Jones, Loachapoka, Ala.; Mrs. H. G. Chambers, East Point; Mrs. S. R. Ratliff, Experiment, Ga.; Mrs. C. F. Jones, Hampton, Ga.; Mrs. W. T. Brown, Morrow, Ga.; Mrs. J. C. Strickland, Hapeville, and Mrs. F. H. Kirk, Atlanta; three sons, J. H. A. U. and Chester Jones, all of Hapeville; a sister, Miss Bick Jones, Notsulga, Ala.; 29 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

TRAVELERS TO TALK MUTUAL AID HERE

Delegates From 13 States, 30 Southern Cities Due.

Citizens from more than 30 southern cities will meet in Atlanta today for a two-day conference on the work of Travelers' Aid societies in this section.

Mrs. John Jay O'Connor, of New York, president of the National Association for Travelers' Aid and Transient Service, will attend the conference. She will address the dinner meeting of the conference at 8 o'clock tonight at the Piedmont hotel.

Mrs. Arthur I. Harris, of Atlanta, national vice president of the association, is in charge of the regional conference. The meeting, the first of its kind held in the south, assembles lay leaders and professional workers in 32 Travelers' Aid agencies from 13 states. All meetings will be held at the Piedmont hotel.

EDUCATORS ELECT.

ROME, Ga., May 5.—R. C. Hogan, principal of Cave Spring school, has been elected president of the Floyd County Education Association. He succeeds R. H. Minor, principal of Model school. Other officers elected include: J. Theodore Phillips, principal of Mount Alto school, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Powers, of Tubize school, secretary, and Miss Frances Morgan, of McHenry school, treasurer.

Presenting to Georgia — TEN GREAT NATIONAL FAVORITES

MOST of you, no doubt, know the liquors shown here at least by name and reputation, for the labels they bear are old and respected and the fame they've won is nation-wide. All are products of National Distillers and are recognized everywhere for high quality, fair prices, matchless value. They are now on sale at all liquor stores. Ask for them by name... enjoy them in moderation... and know the pleasure and satisfaction that such excellent liquors can give.

BOTTLED IN BOND

UNDER U.S. GOVERNMENT SUPERVISION—FULL 100 PROOF

AMERICA'S "FOURMOST" WHISKIES
In Prestige and Popularity
OLD GRAND-DAD
As superb a straight bourbon as ever came out of Kentucky... a superlatively fine whiskey which has furthered friendships and heightened hospitality for a half-century and more. It now sells at seasonally low prices—the lowest in twenty years.

OLD TAYLOR
A straight Kentucky bourbon of rare quality and inimitable flavor, its label marked with the signature of a master distiller who made whiskey history in the Bluegrass State more than fifty years ago. Always a great whiskey, now a great buy at new low prices.

MOUNT VERNON
The patron of American ryes and as typically American as the historic shrine from which it takes its name. Delicate in flavor and tempered in its tang, Mount Vernon long has been a favorite with those who delight in genial living.

OLD OVERHOLT
Rich and sturdy Pennsylvania straight rye... the leading seller among U.S. bottled in bond whiskies. Famous the world over for its distinctive taste. First made in 1810, it's been a truly great whiskey for 128 years.

TOWN TAVERN
This straight rye whiskey is 2 years old, 90 proof. Long a favorite with men who know good rye. Moderately priced but rich and flavorful, it pleases purse and palate alike.

NATIONAL'S EAGLE
A smoother, mellower blended whiskey of the before-the-war type—truly the "king of blends." 40 per cent American straight whiskey, 60 per cent American grain neutral spirits.

A NOBLE SCOTCH
—Gentle as a lamb
That's Old Angus, famous in Scotland for generations and now available to Americans for the first time. Blended Scotch whisky—8 years old and 86 proof.

GOOD DRINKS BEGIN WITH GILBEY'S GIN
Distilled London dry gin, internationally famous for almost a hundred years—90 proof and distilled from 100% American grain neutral spirits.

CRAB ORCHARD
This Kentucky straight bourbon whiskey is 2 years old, 90 proof. Made as the costliest bottled in bond whiskeys are and slowly ripened in white oak barrels. Priced under a dollar a pint, it tastes like a million.

WINDSOR
This straight bourbon whiskey is 2 years old, 90 proof and all whiskey every drop. Aged and mellowed in charred oak casks, it possesses an unusual bouquet and flavor. As splendid a bourbon with a great and loyal following.

TOWN TAVERN

HOSIERS HIT SNAG ORGANIZING SOUTH

Concerted Action Needed, Claims Atlanta Leader.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., May 5.—(P)—Two labor leaders told the American Federation of Hosiery Workers' convention today that a unionization drive in the south, which is planned by the organization, could not achieve its objectives without the co-operation of other unions.

John S. Martin, of Atlanta, Ga., southern director for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, declared the south must be organized in all branches of industry, and pledged the support of his organization.

President Emilie Rieve, of the hosiery workers, concurred, expressing gratification for the profers of assistance.

RICH'S

Mother Will Adore This New Idea in Perfume on Her "Own Day"

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK CITY, Wednesday.—I have heard how successful the World's Fair preview parade was from all who saw it. Now I learn that Mr. Grover Whalen is going up to the opening of the Apple Blossom Festival in Kingston, N. Y., on May 6. Evidently his interest in the beautiful development of the grounds at the fair site has brought about a general interest in anything in the neighborhood which may prove to be an added attraction to visitors who come to the fair.

Other parts of the country, notably Virginia and the south, have been opening their old houses to the public for many years. Perhaps necessity has driven them to do so, but I think there is also a spirit of hospitality and a desire to share the beauties with others.

In the north we are shyer and more reticent, but it will do us good, I think, to share our points of interest and beauty with neighbors from the west and south.

The Ulster County Apple Blossom Festival will last three days, May 6, 7 and 8. If you cannot be there this year, remember, when you are coming to the New York World's Fair next year, to plan to see this festival.

I think my young guests, the Children of Congressional Parents, had a very good time at their garden party yesterday afternoon. I had to urge them to be a little curious, for they seemed shy about wandering around and looking in at the windows. They were a delightful group of young people and the marine band never had a more appreciative audience. After talking with them, I retired under President Jackson's magnolia tree to receive a number of guests, among them Miss Thorne, who is in Washington acting in "Tobacco Road."

Jimmy and I had dinner on the south porch, where a breathtaking view was opened before us. The Washington monument gleamed white in the darkness, the fountain at the foot of the lawn threw up graceful sprays and the new moon looked down upon it all. A scent of roses and syringa wafted up from the garden to add to our enjoyment.

I worked at my desk after dinner and then Mrs. Scheider and I took the midnight train for New York. We were met at the station at 7:20 by my brother, who seems to consider that this is the normal hour for anyone to be up and out.

I am taking another lesson in voice this morning, in the hope that I may be able to master the technique of talking for a news-reel camera. So far, the results have been so appalling that I shudder whenever anyone tells me they have heard one of my efforts.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield in care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am a widower with experience and I am convinced that the farther away from women a man keeps himself, the better off he is. They want to break your heart and your pocketbook. Yes, all went well with me for two years until income did a nose dive and then my wife started the fireworks; so I took our son and went to my mother's home where he is being raised. She divorced me and remarried soon afterward, giving me the black eye although I loved her and did my best to give her what she wanted, which was impossible since she wanted too much. Women are funny that way; when they are riding high with a man to pay the freight they are plenty sweet but when money is tight it's a different tale. There's nothing like experience to teach us what we have to know. N. B. P.

Answer: Brother, you shouldn't let an unfortunate experience make a woman hater of you, for while it may be true that you picked a lemon in the garden of love there were sweet oranges growing near by which you might have chosen had you been wise. Of course there are main chance maidens who see in men merely opportunities to get where they are going, transportation with meals and amusements thrown in for good measure. But the vast majority are contented with what their husbands can afford to give them. They provided the husbands love them, confide in them, play with them; make real partners of them.

At the present moment you don't believe you will ever again be ensnared but it won't be long until you meet another girl who will convince you that she's different and you will persuade yourself (with her help) that you need a home and a companion, that your little boy who is being spoiled by adoring grandparents belongs in a home of his own with you and a good step-mother.

When that time comes your cynicism will melt in the glow of a new love and you will chant with Solomon: "Her price is far above rubies. She will do him good and not evil all the days of her life."

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: If there's anything in the old saying "Love will find a way," I'm all right for I am so much in love that I can't keep up with the calendar. We have never had a cross word throughout the two years we've been together. But all of a sudden she says she's not sure of herself and doesn't know whether or not she will marry me. Please tell me how to bring her back to her old self. BUDDY.

Answer: The old saying must refer to love when it's mutual on both sides and you have reason to suspect that yours is a one-sided affair. However, there is another old adage that's apropos: "Blessings brighten as they take their flight." Suppose you do a fade-out for a spell and reappear holding hands with another date, just to show your girl that you have a way with the fair sex. She's almost certain to call you back and if she doesn't call quickly you will probably have fallen for the decoy.

HOLLYWOOD, May 5.—"My Lucky Star," starring Sonja Henie. The scene is a sporting goods store. And what a store! Draped round the aisles are skiing equipment, skating equipment, sweaters of every color and posters advertising the joys of this and that winter resort. The center of the floor is a huge skating rink. Sonja Henie, the little girl from the package room, is disporting herself thereon. Her package costume is new, to say the least. A pretty white bonnet with a Scotch plaid border is perched on her golden curls. An abbreviated wisp of a white dress with a plaid border gives ample vision of sturdy legs and white skating boots.

But Sonja's behavior is stranger than her clothes. At the moment of my arrival, she is spread-eagled on the ice. She rises gingerly, makes a few wild steps in the air to regain her balance, loses it and per-lonk! Down on the ice again. "Is anything the matter?" I ask rushing to her aide. "This is the second time that I've been on the ice," an English voice answers through Sonja's lips. (Obviously someone ventriloquizing at my expense.) "I suppose next you'll tell me you're not Sonja Henie." "I'm not," Sonja replies. "I'm Joanne Taylor—Miss Henie's new stand-in." It is now my turn to hit the ice. "There's Sonja Henie over there," continues "Sonja." To cut a bewildering experience short, the likeness between Miss Taylor and Miss Henie is amazing. Miss Taylor, who is a brunet in non-acting life, has been terribly pestered because of her remarkable resemblance to Sonja. "I couldn't stand it any longer, and wrote to Darryl Zanuck," Joanne tells me. She followed this by coming to Hollywood where she now hopes her "double" will help her to a screen career.

The real Miss Henie, lost several pounds in weight during her recent personal appearance triumph. "It was hard work—but a lot of fun," she tells me. "I'm going to do it every year." Cesar Romero is again acting with Sonja

Beauty According To You

A New Version of Perfume In Long-Famous, Favorite Odors By LILLIAN MAE.

Through the ages women have loved perfumes. The Queen of Sheba was more glamorous, Cleopatra more alluring, because of their perfumes. But do you know when and how to use bottled fragrances to their best advantage? Do you know the difference between perfume, toilet water and eau de cologne?

Most perfumes are very concentrated. Just a touch here and there, and milady goes forth armed with fascination, romantic or alluring, according to the type and strength of perfume selected. Above all, she must suit her perfume to her own personality.

Then there is toilet water—which is just that—perfume diluted, for more lavish use than the straight extract—on the body, in bath water, or in the final rinse for lingerie.

Several months ago—last spring to be exact—a maker of very fine perfumes, one's whose name will always mean the finest to me because of my very early memory of the first bottle of real perfume I was ever presented by the first "real beau," brought out a different kind of perfume. Containing all the strength of perfume itself, it is so prepared that it may be used as an after-bath rub, or as a pick-up stimulant at any time. Used lavishly, it retains its odor longer than regular perfume, because as the cells of the body breathe, they throw out the fragrance in sufficient amounts to make the wearer just sufficiently mystifying, alluring or sophisticated as the case may be, according to the odor used.

This issue last spring was in floral odors—those which make spring such a joy. With them a room could in a flash be transformed by an imaginative person, into a garden featuring honeysuckle, verberna, gardenia or other old-time favorites in which this eau florale conceals its magic. These are still available, and in addition, it is being brought out just in time for Mother's Day, in the odors which have long stood for the name of the manufacturer: three odors which mean the very finest in perfume the world over, and a fourth I haven't known before.

A large-sized bottle may be bought for $1—at least four times as much as that in the dollar bottle of regular perfume which the world has so loved. In other words, Mother has undoubtedly admired these odors since her early girlhood, but has had to use the perfume with just a touch here and there. Now she may have it to use as a regular body perfume and revel in what it does to her and those around her, for many, many hours because of the difference in price and the more free use. Isn't it grand to have all the benefits of regular perfume from a much larger bottle, to use over the body instead of just a touch on the ears and elbows, at the price of the average bottle of toilet water?

I love to spray this new eau florale through my hair. There it is held through a full evening of dancing, and many times its subtle fragrance is admired and its name requested. Try it in this manner and see if you are not delighted! One of the new-old odors is the most-long famous of all; another the unusual flower third is the romantic South; the fourth is for the luxury-minded, a vibrant expression of smart outdoor life. Then there is another, known as the "perfume of a lady." Remember, this innovation in perfume is applied directly on the skin, the final touch of loveliness: light enough for liberal use, lasting enough to last the clock around. Not "on" you but "of" you, the delicate fragrance subtly diffuses through your clothing and keeps you lovely and fresh all day.

Phone me at my office in The Constitution building for further information of this "must" suggestion for Mother's Day—a delightful hint for a gift at any time—and something you won't want to be without, even if you have to buy it for yourself.

Bridge Lite

By HAROLD SHARPSTEEN

BRIDGE PRIMER.
Fortified by the knowledge that the deal of 52 cards in contract bridge produces an average total count of eight honor-tricks around the table, each player hopes to be favored with at least an equal share of these high cards. But when the honor cards are so evenly distributed among the four players, the deal is usually passed out for the next player on the left to deal over.

Before being willing to be the first to open the bidding, a good contract player prefers the protection of better than his equal share of the high cards dealt. Upon this basic fundamental of sound bidding three tricks to open, and paramount "rules" of contract bridge.

Opening trump suit bids of one, made at any position at the table, vulnerable or not vulnerable, only require at least 2 1/2 H. T., but a suit bid is rebiddable as well. A total of three honor tricks minimum is required when holding a suit that is only biddable once.

For this reason, it is well to know when a suit is biddable, requiring three tricks to open, and when a suit is rebiddable, requiring only 2 1/2 honor tricks to open the bidding.

A four-card suit to be biddable should be headed by at least two face cards... a five-card suit at least one face card... any six-card suit is biddable.

A four-card suit is rebiddable only when it is solid as A K Q J... a rebiddable five-card suit contains three honor-cards or is headed by ace-king or ace-queen... six-card suits should be headed by a king or a queen-jack... any six-card major suit is rebiddable.

Competitive Bidding.
Once the bidding is opened, opponents or partner of the original bidder are not required to have 2 1/2 to 3 H. T., to now enter the bidding.

Any one of three remaining players, holding a biddable suit, may name it, holding only 1 1/2 H. T., provided it is possible to bid the suit at the one level. If required to enter the bidding at 2 1/2 to 3 H. T., a minimum of 2 H. T. is needed and a biddable five-card suit.

Keeping the bidding alive for partner, when second hand passes, is one of the chief problems and responsibilities of third-hand.

Requirements for such shaded suit takeouts, suits raises and no-trump bids are considerably lower. With something worth while showing, partner of the original bidder does not pass when his hand contains as little as two cards in the suit named. In other words, with as little as a king in one suit and a queen in another, partner will not pass an opening suit bid of one when second hand passes.

PLEASANT HOME

By ELIZABETH M'RAE BOY

Winifred's kitchen is the best place. It has all the conveniences, that's true, but some it manages to seem so much friendly and hospitable that usually, starkly glaring kitchen, the green and white checkered linoleum is one reason. Am light crisp green walls do share, too. But we think the low curtains have the most with it. There are two wide of windows, (the kitchen is corner of the house) and Winifred has made yellow percale cut tied back rings. She has across the top she has valances of brightest red printed cotton Turkish peasant pattern with rows of bias tape in y and green, like a peasant coat.

The kitchen chairs have backs and seat slips covered with this same printed cotton five-inch pleated skirts all yellow oilcloth covers table cupboard work surfaces and shelves are all painted yellow canisters and kitchen dishes in light green and all the and pans are in aluminum chromium.

It's a big kitchen with room corner for a rocker a round braided rug. "Just for time's sake," laughed Winifred. "I must say it's a place to sit and sew, read or while I'm waiting for some to cook that I can't really let. We liked Ethel's kitchen. It's quite different from Fred's—no bigger than a m for one thing, with white and plain red linoleum. Ethel stencils of stars in diff sizes and painted them bright hit or miss over the ceiling, some odd ones on the side. White canisters got blue painted on them, too."

Complement to SPRING

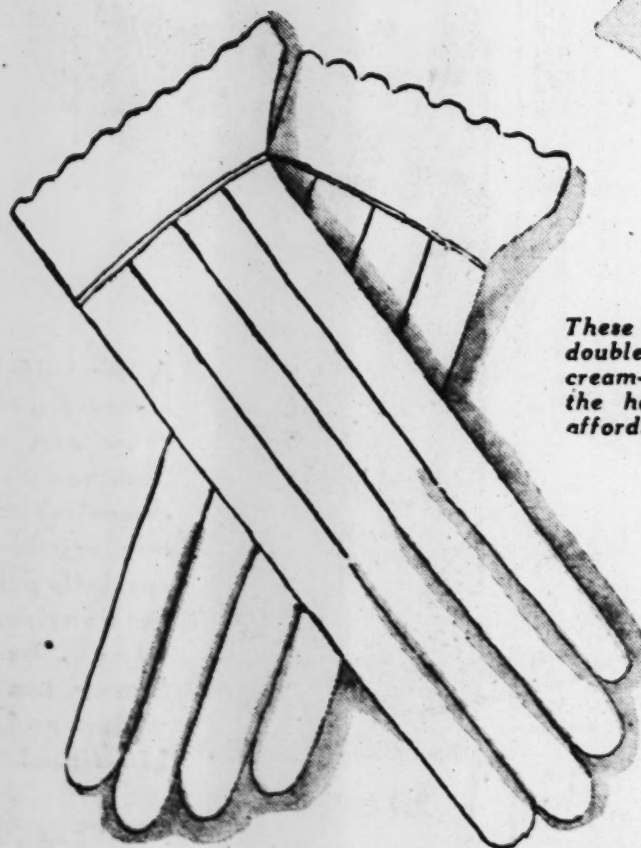

A delightful costume whether for being active or merely ornamental is this California slack suit in powder blue sharkskin. Anyone with a sense of fun or an eye for color will love it. The wedge-shaped pockets are decorated with tiny felt gloves in royal blue felt, each little glove grasping a brilliant red feather. The mother-of-pearl buttons and tailored collar on the other hand are all that is suitable and sensible.

Momentarily fagged from her efforts, the lovely lady toys with the idea of catching an elusive butterfly. Her frock is green India print which zips the length of the front and is caught with a sash behind. Gently defying the sun, the scarf is identical with the dress. Incidentally, she sits on a Deauville settee made of white-enameled steel so springy its comfort is unbelievable.

For show as much as for glow, a black Milan straw hat and its enormous brim shade our lady from the sun. Her outfit is a combination sport dress and play suit. The dress is one-piece, despite the appearance of a blouse in black petit pique with large puffed sleeves and a full circular skirt of large pique, black and white striped. All this buttons down the front and around it is a wide Shamrock green linen belt.

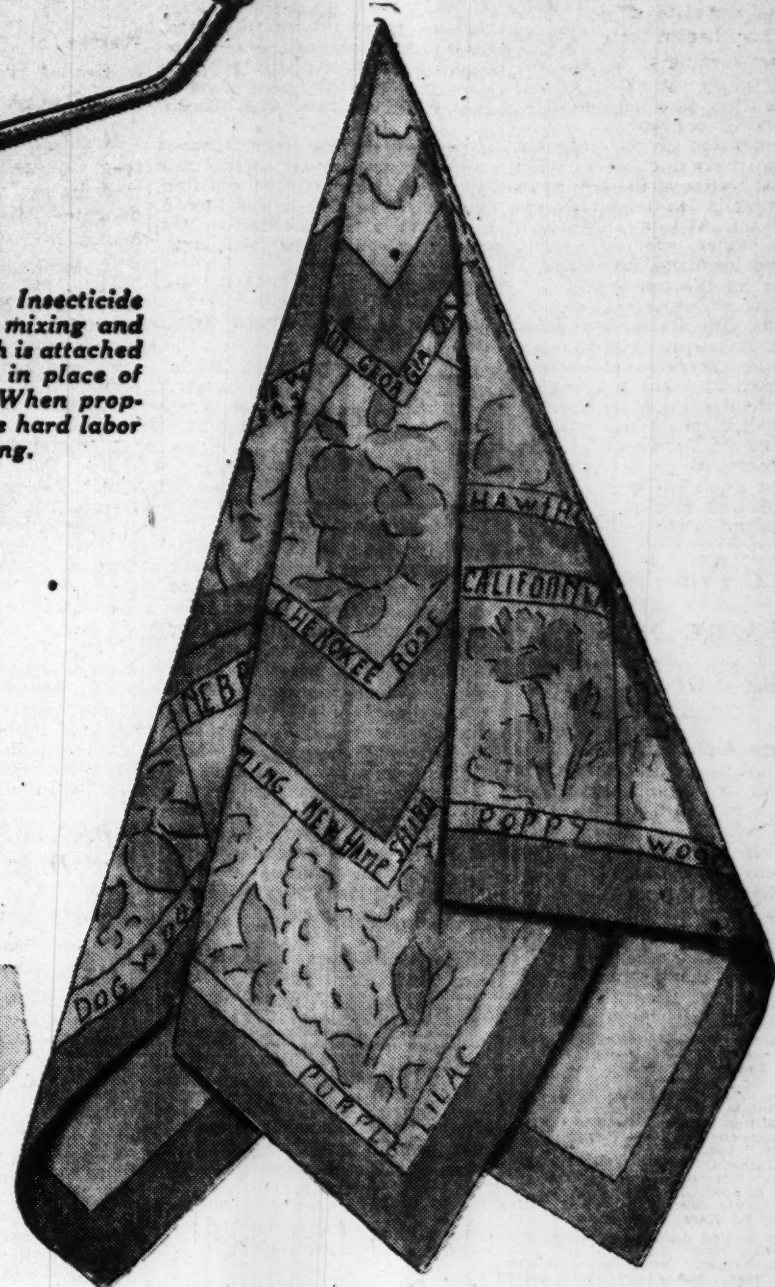

These large white gloves serve a double purpose, for they are cream-treated and tend to soften the hands the while they are affording complete protection.

Trickiest spring item are these sport shoes. They are called the Cool-ee, with the new, uplift heel. This particular pair are of natural linen with a dark blue sole, and are distinctive in that they lace neatly in the back.

The Garden Hose Insecticide Sprayer is a special mixing and spraying device which is attached to your garden hose in place of the regular nozzle. When properly used, it takes the hard labor out of garden spraying.

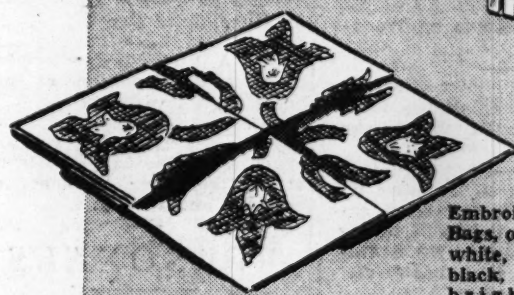

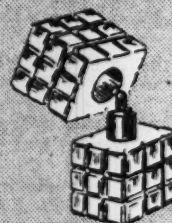

Another scarf, this one replete with prints of the flowers of every state done on a green background in colors as brilliant as any in your garden.

Farm Woman, 30, Is Reported Recovering.

HAVANA, May 5. (AP)—Dr. Roberto Fonseca, director of a hospital at Bayamo, Oriente province, telephoned to Havana today that a farm woman near Bayamo had given birth prematurely to seven children but none had survived. He said he had visited the woman but had not seen the children because the midwife had disposed of them before his arrival. The birth, he said, occurred Monday, after three months' gestation. The woman's name was given as Rafaela Canova, 30. She is recovering.

'Big Six' Absent as Movies Offer Atlantans Fine Variety

Fox Bills "Joy of Living," Grand, "Judge Hardy's Children," "Hawaii Calls," at Paramount. Rialto Holds Woman Skit, Capitol Opens With Crime Story.

By LEE ROGERS.

Motion Picture Editor. While theater owners in New York are quarrelling with Hollywood officials over the box office worth of six of the industry's highest salaried stars, Atlanta motion picture house managers are opening today with films featuring actors and actresses, not in the "Big Six," but whose audience popularity is well-established. Three new films, a musical comedy, a musical and a family story, open today, and Sunday the Capitol opens with a picture of scientific adventure in the jungles. "Joy of Living" is a musical comedy starring Irene Dunne and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., at the Fox. "Judge Hardy's Children," with Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney and Cecilia Parker, is a picture depicting the life of a normal American family—its ups and downs. At Loew's Grand, Bobby Breen appears in "Hawaii Calls" at the Fox. The Rialto is holding over for the third week "There's Always a Woman," in which Melvyn Douglas and Joan Blondell star. The Capitol opens Sunday with "The Crime of Dr. Hallett" and a stage show.

SEVEN ENTRANTS IN AMATEUR NIGHT The Capitol theater presents the first of its amateur nights at 9 o'clock tonight on its stage. Seven contestants have signed to compete in the opening search-for-talent contest, the management announced. These contestants will be a regular Friday night feature in the future. Opening on the Capitol screen Sunday is "The Crime of Dr. Hallett," a story of scientific adventure on a jungle island where a heroic scientist finds his efforts to save countless thousands of human lives thwarted by the death of a single individual. Featured in the picture are Ralph Bellamy, Josephine Hutchinson, Barbara Reed and William Gargan. On the stage starting Sunday will be "The Swing Parade" with a vaudeville cast headed by Emmett Miller, billed as Dixie's favorite blackface comedian. "Island in the Sky" continues through Saturday on the Capitol screen.

BOBBY SINGS OFFEN

ALMOST 2,500 miles of Pacific ocean lay between Hollywood and the location chosen for filming "Hawaii Calls," Bobby Breen's new musical which opens today at the Paramount.

Accordingly, a field unit headed by Bobby himself started from Hollywood, embarked on the liner President Hoover and sailed to Honolulu. Scenes were filmed on the boat during the passage and for three weeks the Hawaiian capital was the base of operations so as to give an authentic touch to the film. Among the scenes is a luau, or native feast, native girls, Pali at the head of Nuuanu Valley, a towering 600-foot precipice over which the ancient King Kamehameha once drove an opposing army. Bobby sings "Sweet Lullaby," "Hawaii Calls," "Down Where the Trade Winds Blow," and others. In the cast are Ned Sparks, Irvin S. Cobb, Gloria Holden, Warren

Melvyn Douglas, the picture is a riot throughout as a famous detective attempts to outwit his wife in solving a murder mystery.

One of the best scenes in the picture is the "third degree" room where Joan has been kept all night as the police attempt to find out what she knows about the murder. Joan continues to hold her tongue and is not annoyed by the lighting matches and squeaking chair as much as are the police. Finally the matches give out and Joan, the gallant "lady" she is, pops forward to offer matches that the questioning might continue.

Coming to the Rialto next Friday is "Between Two Women," featuring Maureen O'Sullivan, Virginia Bruce and Franchot Tone.

She once weighed 730 pounds but the illness had reduced her to 450. Ten orderlies were necessary to transfer her from a specially reinforced bed to the hospital morgue.

LOVEABLE FAMILY STORY OFFERED AT GRAND

"Judge Hardy's Children," a loveable story of the family life of "plain everyday Americans," comes to the Grand today featuring Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Cecilia Parker and Fay Holden.

The picture is a sequel to the popular "You're Only Young Once," and was produced at the demand of the audiences throughout the country for more of the Judge Hardy adventures.

Stone plays the wise old judge and father, Mickey and Cecilia, the two irrepressible youngsters. Fay Holden is the mother and Betty Ross Clarke enacts Aunt Milly. The Hardy family goes to Washington when the judge is called to serve on a commission investigating stock market affairs. There Mickey falls for a little French girl and Cecilia is taken out by members of a lobbyist group seeking to learn what the judge's decision will be. And strangely enough, Mickey's philosophy about women proves the philosophy which saves the family name and honor.

U. S. LOAN FUND DOWN $140,000,000 IN WEEK

WASHINGTON, May 5. (AP)—Federal financing trimmed $140,000,000 off the nation's huge bank supply of lendable funds, reducing these excess reserves to $2,440,000,000 in the week ended May 4, the Federal Reserve Board said today.

Sale of $200,000,000 worth of Commodity Credit Corporation notes reduced money in circulation and consequently cut excess reserves.

Excess reserves have been about doubled, however, in the last few weeks as the result of the administration's new program of credit inflation and will continue to increase for several months as the treasury spends the $1,400,000,000 credit it received from the de-sterilization of gold.

MR. ZERO

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

INSTALLMENT XXVII

In the rear of the big house, where Sturrock apparently always had everything well under control, the door of the butler's pantry opened and Mr. Zero came in. He shut the door behind him and said in an easy, affable voice:

"Well, Sturrock, have you got them?"

Sturrock had turned around at the first sound, but he showed no surprise. He was expecting Mr. Zero, and expecting to make a very good thing out of him. He had the letters, and that was all the same as having Mr. Zero's neck in a noose. What a bit of luck—his being first the yew walk. They had all come streaming away without so much as a thought for the letters and left him to find them where they had dropped, tight down beside the hedge, under the window.

Well, he'd got them cheap and he didn't mean to run any risks either. If Mr. Zero wanted to talk, he could do it here in Sturrock's quarters where he wouldn't be tempted to try any more of his fancy stuff. All this took no time. It was in his mind, a settled policy, all thought out and clear. He didn't have to think about it.

So when Mr. Zero said, "Have you got them?" he had his answer ready.

"I've got them all right, if you've got the money, sir."

"I have got it," said Mr. Zero. He put a hand in his pocket and pulled out a wad of notes. "Quick, man, show me the letters!"

Sturrock's eyes were on the notes. Money for jam, that's what it was—big money, and not the last of it either, because as long as he knew what he knew he could out and come again. As long as he knew—He dived into an inside pocket and brought out a knotted dark silk handkerchief. It had been untied, and tied again, since Sylvia Collesborough had fastened the stolen letters in it, and the knots were loose and slipping. Sturrock pulled out the letters—there were no more than three of them—and pushed the handkerchief back into his pocket.

Mr. Zero threw the bundle of notes down upon the pantry table. "Count them while I have a look at the letters," he said.

The butler hesitated, leaned forward, reached for the notes, and saw Mr. Zero's right hand go down into his pocket again—a gloved right hand.

But Mr. Zero smiled, took a long step forward, and shot him dead.

There was very little noise. The pistol had been fitted with a silencer. This Mr. Zero removed. Sturrock had fallen across the table, but the heavy body would probably slide down to the floor. With his gloved hand Mr. Zero clasped the limp right hand about the pistol butt. He put the letters and the notes into his pocket. Then left the room.

William gave the alarm ten minutes later, rushing white-faced into the study.

"Mr. Sturrock—no, sir, he's shot himself! Oh, sir!" And then an incoherent story of how he had tried the door of the butler's pantry, the one on the kitchen side, and found it locked—"And when I couldn't get an answer I went around by the other door—and he's shot himself!"

Inspector Boyce went quickly out of the room. The study faced the terrace, with the dining room behind it, and the butler's pantry behind that. As he ran through the hall, he saw Algy Somers on his way downstairs. He ran on.

The door through which William had entered the pantry opened from the dining room. It stood wide open now, and Inspector Boyce could see the heavy figure of the butler fallen in a heap beside the table. That he was dead was past all question. That it was suicide seemed likely enough. And if it was suicide, then perhaps there need not look any further for the murderer of Sir Francis Collesborough.

The inspector tried the second door, and found it locked. Then he went over to the telephone and rang up the police station.

Dr. Hammond, official medical examiner, came presently.

"Not suicide, do you think, doctor?" asked Colonel Anstruther.

"Well, I shouldn't say so," Dr. Hammond's voice was brisk. "I'm not going to say it's impossible, but he was shot through the left temple, and he wasn't a left-handed man. Work it out for yourselves. I don't say it's impossible for a man who's going to commit suicide should take the pistol in his left hand and shoot himself through his left temple, but I don't believe it's ever happened. I mean, why should he?"

"The thing's absurd. Besides—" "There's this, sir," said Inspector Boyce. He leaned across the writing table at which Colonel Anstruther was sitting and laid upon the blotting pad the dark silk handkerchief.

"Handkerchief the missing letters were tied up in, sir. Lady Collesborough has identified it. You can see where the edge of the letters has marked it, and where the corners have been knotted."

"Well?" said Colonel Anstruther, staring.

"Where are the letters, sir? That's the point."

"He burnt 'em. How's that, Brook?"

Mr. Brook shook his head. "There was only a very small fire, sir," said the inspector, "pretty well dead. Sturrock's been out for the afternoon, you know. If he'd tried to burn the letters, there'd have been some ash about. There wasn't any. As if he was Mr. Zero and he'd destroyed them right away, destroyed the handkerchief, to 'How do you know he did destroy 'em at once?'"

"Marks on the handkerchief," said Inspector Boyce. "Very small, sir. See—there's the shape of the envelopes quite plain, the crease wouldn't last an hour or so tumbling in his pocket, he had it."

"What do you say to that, Brook?"

The four men were alone in the study. Mr. Patterson, whose study would be soon have touched force as murder, had gone back to town outraged in every susceptibility. Mr. Montagu Lushington had not gone yet. He was, the moment, in the drawing room with his two secretaries.

"What do you say to that, Brook?"

Mr. Brook nodded slightly. "The inspector is quite right, Colonel Anstruther. That handkerchief would only keep shape of the letters for a very short time. If they hadn't been tied up in it for a good many hours, it wouldn't have kept it all. I don't think it was suicide. Sturrock was the first on the scene of Sir Francis Collesborough's murder after Mr. Somers and Mr. Hardywick ran up to the house. Lady Collesborough has said along that she didn't know what happened to the letters. Either she dropped them on her side of the hedge, or Mr. Zero dropped them on his side. The dark covering would make the package very inconspicuous. By some accident Sturrock found them, think it is quite impossible that he should have been Mr. Zero. I think the letters told him Mr. Zero was. I think he tried to make use of this knowledge, and I think it brought him to his death. I think Mr. Zero is a very dangerous man to blackmail."

"Sounds like a lot of guesswork to me. What about the pistol, what about fingerprints? They show who handled it."

"Only Sturrock's fingerprints, sir," said Inspector Boyce. "But, of course, anyone who was close to make it look like suicide wouldn't go leaving fingerprints of his own. Mr. Brook is quite right, sir—Mr. Zero is a dangerous one. And I don't think we've to look very far for him, either. It's getting enough evidence for jury that's the trouble."

Colonel Anstruther looked up him. "There's no doubt about the pistol being the missing one of Francis Collesborough's pair?"

"Absolutely no doubt at all, and who had the best opportunity of taking it? Why, he'd half an hour to do what he liked before he got here—hadn't he?"

Dr. Hammond had been listening with brisk attention, turn his head from one speaker to another with rather the air of a trier who is watching several holes at once. He now burst in speech.

"You mean Mr. Somers?" "Colonel Anstruther pushed his chair with a jerk."

"Oh, have him in—have him in a crazy case, if you ask me."

RECORDS OF SPEED. V—Airplanes.

This week we have been going over the speeds of animals, men and machines. Summing up, and putting the records on a rate per minute basis, we have found:

"The best swimmers (so far as tests have been made) are certain ocean fish which travel about half a mile a minute. The fastest runners are cheetahs, gazelles and pronghorn antelopes which can run at the rate of a mile a minute, and in the case of the cheetah a bit more than that for a short distance."

Ordinary airplanes make speed of 100 or 150 miles per hour without trouble. Many planes go from 200 or 300 miles per hour thus beating the record claim for the fast-flying bird.

Much faster records have been made by airplanes. Last November a German "land plane" flew at the rate of 379 miles per hour. Seaplanes have gone even faster than that, the best record being 440 miles per hour, or seven and one-third miles per minute!

In recent months, great claims have been set up for the so-called "deer fly." This insect certainly is a speed demon, but the claim made by one scientist that it travels over 800 miles an hour should not be believed until more careful tests are made. The trouble with timing the deer fly is that it gets out of sight so quick. The scientist I speak of did testing with an extra-fast camera.

Crackers Rained Out; Bill Beckman To Face Pels Tonight

LARRY GILBERT FEARS PEBBLES IN TITLE CHASE

Overman To Pitch for Pels at 8:30; Double-Header Set Saturday.

By THAD HOLT.
Staring out into rain that caused postponement of yesterday's cracker-Pelican opener, Larry Gilbert, amiable pilot of the Pelicans, allowed he'd pitch big Earl Seashole, fireball right-hander who has won three and lost none, against the Crackers tonight at once de Leon.

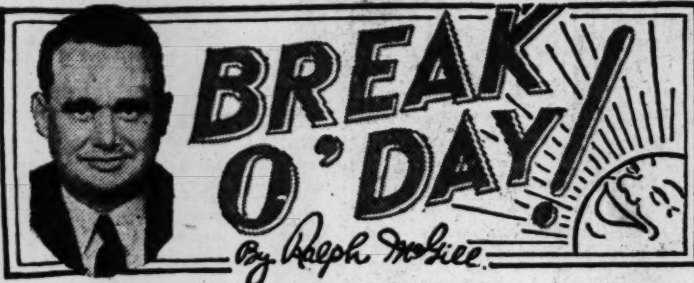

Paul Richards will shoot Bill Beckman at the Birds. The teams wind up their series with a double-header at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and then the Crackers hit the road. Larry Gilbert appeared in a ppy mood. One would think his Pelicans were right up there leading the parade instead of being a game below the .500 mark. Perhaps Gilbert knows something. Maybe the Indians have definitely omitted to return Johnny Hummer, his last year's ace. He admitted he had high hopes of getting the North Carolina speedster.

BALL-PLAYING SONS.

Perhaps that glint in Larry's eyes is caused by the play of his two sons, Larry Jr., who is regular Pelican baseman, but who is now confined in New Orleans with an attack of flu, and Charlie, a brilliant centerfielder of the Loyola of the South nine. Papa Larry doesn't mince words in speaking of his boys. Sure, they're both major league prospects," he said. "If they aren't, I wouldn't let them touch another baseball. I made up my mind a long time ago that if my boys couldn't be big leaguers, they'd have to enter another business." The elder Gilbert will see to it that Charlie finishes school before he enters pro ball. "Doggone, he's a spitting image of his old man," said. "You ought to see him."

PEBS STRONG.

"Little Rock," came the quick firm answer. "Prothro has other real club. They beat us

Old Alex McKellar's Wife Brought Dinner--Golfer Was Still Playing

LONDON, England (By Mail).—With the British amateur and Walker cup golf matches approaching, it is fascinating to read the stories of the beginnings of golf and of some of its pioneers.

Of, for instance, Allan Robertson. He was one of the greatest golfers who ever lived and was never defeated in a stake match played on even terms. He was born in 1815, at St. Andrews, and was descended from a family which had played golf since the days of 1400.

The veterans who lived from his day to see Harry Vardon were of the opinion that there was a great similarity in the styles of the two.

Great Tom Morris Sr. worked in Robertson's golf shop. The principal trade was making feather golf balls. The story goes that a disagreement came between the two with the advent of the gutta ball. Old Tom decided to play with the new-fangled invention and Robertson considered the ball might damage his business in the feather-stuffed balls. He attempted, through agents, to buy up all the gutta balls manufactured.

Robertson died in 1858, the year before the open was instituted. A memorial stands to him in the churchyard at St. Andrews.

"THE COCK O' THE GREEN."

One Alex McKellar, probably was the most enthusiastic golfer who ever lived. "Golf widows" in Atlanta may thank their stars their husbands are not as devout as he before the throne of golf.

He spent his whole day at the Bruntsfield links, Edinburgh, and at night would sit a lamp on the green and practice putting. He played every day in winter, and winter can be very wintery in Scotland.

Once his wife, thinking to shame him, carried his dinner and his nightcap to the course. She arrived as he was engaged in a match and, failing entirely to see the irony in her presence, said:

"Ye may wait if ye wish, but now I have nae time for dinner."

This hero died in 1813 at a time when England had just again given up efforts to chastize the lost colonies in America.

BIG HORSE SHOW TO OPEN TODAY WITH 15 EVENTS

Governor Rivers Welcomes Three-Day Show at Fort McPherson.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
Governor E. D. Rivers will officially open the ninth annual Atlanta Horse Show today when he gives a welcoming address at Fort McPherson, site of the three-day events.

Responses to Governor Rivers' welcome will be given by Herbert D. Oliver, president of the Atlanta Horse Show Association, and Major General George Van Horn Moseley.

Adrain Van Sinderin, president of the American Horse Shows Association and guest of the Atlanta affair, will give the concluding speech of the opening exercises.

Promptly after the opening of the show, the first of the first day's 15 events will begin at 1:30 o'clock. Class No. 36—Touch and Out, a jumping event—will start the festivities.

This morning, officials of the association and their guests will be honored at the president's breakfast at the Piedmont Driving Club. From there, they will proceed, escorted by state patrolmen, to Fort McPherson for the opening exercises.

The entrance of Fairmount Stables, of Indianapolis, in today's program will greatly boost the already star-studded field of fine horses.

These stables are owned by J. K. Lilly and will show the nationally-famous horses, Jeb Stewart and Ballerina, which gained recognition by their brilliant performances in eastern shows.

It will mark the first time the Fairmount Stables have been represented in Atlanta.

Atlanta will have two champions represented in today's opening event.

Mrs. C. B. Nunnally's Debonaire Duke, a big 5-year-old gelding, is undefeated in the junior 5-gaited class and recently won championships at Alabama and Macon shows, in addition to numerous ribbons.

Billy Black, a Junior rider, has entered his Bold Venture in the three-gaited class and harness classes. Bold Venture has won 13 championships in the last six shows, in addition to blue ribbons. Billy Black will ride Bold Venture in today's program.

L. BARNES TIED FOR PREP LEAD

By ESCAR THOMPSON.
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 5.—Two 18-year-old youths, Billy Davidson, of Montgomery Bell Academy, Nashville, and Luke Barnes, of Tech High, Atlanta, were deadlocked tonight with 149 after 36 holes of the 54-hole medal play southern prep and high school golf tournament.

Tied for second place, with 158 each, were 14-year-old Harold Crow, lone entrant from Baldwin, Ga., High; B. G. Stowe, one of Barnes' teammates from Tech, and Ermal Allen, Morristown, Tenn., High.

POSTS 72.
Davidson posted a neat 72 in the morning round to pile up a three-stroke margin over Barnes, who pieced together a pair of 37s in the afternoon to enter a tie with the Nashville youth who dropped to a 77.

The Atlanta municipal champion, battling with the spirit of a veteran, rammed down a birdie-two on the final hole in the afternoon to gain a tie for first place.

Luke's brother, Ralph, former Atlanta junior titleholder, held third place with 159, posting an 83 in the morning and a 76 in the afternoon.

TEAM CROWN.
Tech High apparently was on the way to its third straight team championship, its representatives—the Barnes brothers, Stowe and Charles Burnette—totalling 638 for a 29-stroke advantage over Lanier High, of Macon, Ga.

The Lanier quartet, Alfred Sams, Carlton and Weston Dixon and Bill Cunningham, required 667 strokes.

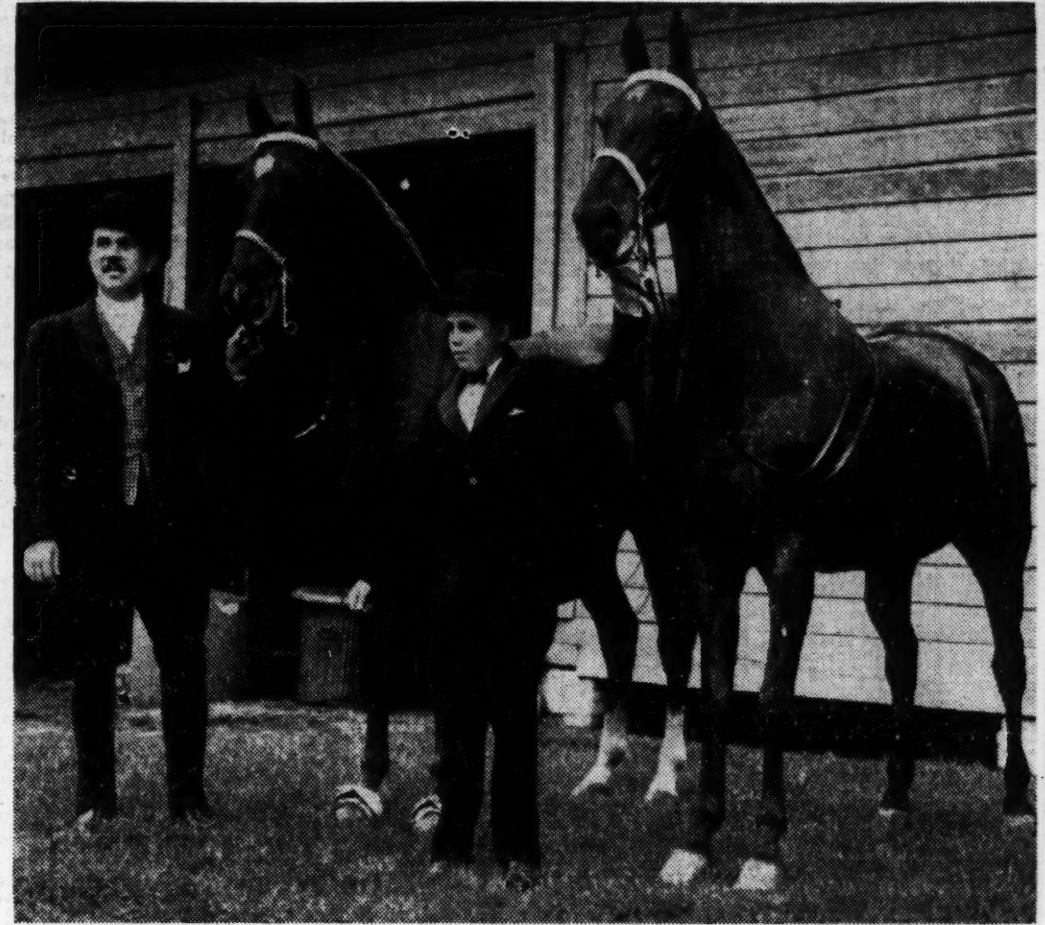

Nearly 100 youths from 26 southern schools battled in and out of the traps bunkers and rough of the Chattanooga Country Club course, some giving old man par a real fight and others willing under his pressure.

The scores ranged from the leaders' 149, to 226, turned in by Cliff Stone, of West End High, of Nashville.

Scores in the Southern Prep golf tournament follow:
Harold Crow, Baldwin High, Baldwin, Ga. 41-40-81
Marshall Balentine, Baylor, Chattanooga, 42-42-84
GEORGE SARGENT, BOYS' HIGH, ATLANTA 43-40-83
Mead Farris, Anchorage High, Louisville 45-39-84
Bill Morehead, Anchorage High, Louisville 45-39-84
Jack Fraser, Baylor, Chattanooga 41-43-84

THESE TWO CHAMPIONS WILL SHOW TODAY

On the left, Jimmy Seashole, trainer, is holding Mrs. C. B. Nunnally's Debonaire Duke, a winner throughout the country in recent shows. Billy Black, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Black Sr., is holding his own Bold Venture, another consistent winner of trophies and ribbons. They are entered in several events of the three-day Atlanta Horse Show, which opens this afternoon at Fort McPherson.

Wide Open Derby

The Chief Moves Up to Third Spot Figured for Stagehand, With Bull Lea, Fighting Fox Expected To Battle for Top Honors.

By Jack Troy.

EN ROUTE TO LOUISVILLE FOR DERBY, May 5.—It was mentioned a week or so ago by this correspondent that Stagehand might prove just another Sceneshifter and never attain the public acclaim in the Kentucky Derby.

At the time, Stagehand, the big winter book favorite, was picked to finish third. But not even that can happen now. Illness has knocked Stagehand's props out from under him.

With Earl Sande's Cinderella hoss out of the race altogether, something has to be done about the third spot. And it may as well be the other half of the Maxwell Howard entry, The Chief.

This corner persistently sticks to Bull Lea, the Kentucky people's choice, as the winner. With Fighting Fox, full brother of Gallant Fox, in the No. 2 spot. There doesn't seem to be much question about it now. I mean that it looms as a strictly wide-open race, with ten, and possibly nine, starters due to go to the post.

The field will be the smallest since 1922. That was the year Morvich showed 'em the way to go home. And there is no room for argument that it isn't the most wide open Derby since Colonel Bradley's Broker's Tip eased out in front in 1933.

It would seem, at a glance, that there have been far classier fields than there will be in this 64th renewal of the ancient Blue Grass classic.

And yet this seems to be a Derby that will afford one and all a real run for their money.

Winter Runners Just Don't Win

There's an old saying that "you can't fool a horse." And the same goes for the wise boys who never plunge on a hoss that runs itself out in the winter.

In the 63 years the Kentucky Derby has been running consecutively, only one horse that ran in the winter finished first in the Derby. Black Gold did it back in 1924.

A western hoss has never won. Stagehand is a western horse. And so, one gathers, is The Chief, his stablemate. That would seem to take care of Earl Sande's sole remaining hope to win.

Fighting Fox And Bull Lea

A steadily growing belief among horsemen is that Fighting Fox and Bull Lea will fight it out for the honors and the top money prize on Saturday.

The full brother of Gallant Fox, a Derby winner, and "Onkle" of Omaha, another Derby champion, won the Wood Memorial and is declared to be a faster horse than was the gallant one.

Fighting Fox is the son of Sir Gallahad III and Marguerite and naturally has the finest of blood lines and heritage. And, according to "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimons, his trainer, he has everything else it takes to win.

Yet, Bull Lea, son of Bull Dog and Rose Leaves, has given every indication that he is a horse that will have to be beat. Twice winner over Menow and each time breaking track records to win, Bull Lea apparently is at top form for the Derby.

The hoss Bull Lea—this corner's favorite from the start—was born and bred in old Kentucky. They raise a lot of horses in your old Kentucky home when he happens to be a good one.

I wouldn't pretend to know, but Bull Lea seems to be a lot of running horse. You can't get away from two straight record-smashing performances plus the fact that in running the full Derby distance Bull Lea clicked

Women To Qualify At Druid Hills Today

Qualifying rounds for a woman's match play tournament on the Druid Hills course will be played this morning starting at 8:30 o'clock.

First round matches will be postponed until the week of May 16, due to the Southern Women's tournament in progress next week at Birmingham, Ala.

The tournament will be extended over a period of several weeks.

BULL LEA RATED 3-1, MENOW IS 6-1 TO WIN CLASSIC

Hope of Miraculous Recovery Prompts Howard to Enter Stagehand.

By ORLO ROBERTSON.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5.—(AP) A bomb exploded unexpectedly in the midst of Kentucky Derby preparations today, left America's most famous horse race practically certain to be without its favorite, Stagehand, and threw the $50,000 classic wider open than ever.

The Earl Sande-trained Cinderella horse, 5 to 2 choice to win Saturday at Churchill Downs as the result of his triumph over Seashole in the Santa Anita handicap last March, was withdrawn when he developed a high temperature from a sore throat.

The fever reached as high as 104.2 degrees last night. When it failed to drop below 101 this morning, Owner Maxwell Howard, of Dayton, Ohio, announced his ace would not parade to the post and that he would rest his hopes on The Chief, conqueror of Stagehand and Herbert M. Woolf's Lawrin Tuesday in the trial stakes. The ailment is similar to that which has kept many two-year-olds out of competition at the Downs this year.

VERY DOUBTFUL STARTER.
Sande said late today Stagehand's fever had gone down and there was an indication that he would be formally entered for the Derby when the books are opened tomorrow, by this the colt would be eligible in case Howard believed him as fit to run by Saturday. He was regarded as a doubtful starter despite this.

Sande said the colt was normal again but added "the only condition under which he will enter him will be that he is kicking the stalls down (meaning full of life and activity) but I don't think he will be. I'm not going to take any chance with the horse."

Sande himself was reluctant to admit that his string of luck had been broken with the horse that won five straight races on the west coast, whipping Seashole by a nose in the rich Santa Anita handicap after failing to win a race last year. He clung to the hope that a miracle might occur but it was just hope.

"While Stagehand's condition is

Dix Jogs About Field To Regain Old Form

CHICAGO, May 5.—(P)—Baseball's one and only Dixie Dean worked out like a lowly rookie today—with his $185,000 arm just so much excess baggage.

Ole Dix, whose high-priced arm was X-rayed yesterday and found to be handicapped by an inflammation of a shoulder muscle, wasn't the loquacious Dean of old as he jogged around the lonely outfield expanse of windswept Wrigley Field, with three young sandlot hopefuls for company. He wasn't popping off. He said he wasn't discouraged, but made it plain he was serious about making good—within 30 days—on a comeback to former greatness.

DOT TO DEFEND SOUTHERN TITLE AT BIRMINGHAM

Charlie To Sail With Walker Cup Squad Tuesday Night.

By ROY WHITE. Charlie Yates and Dorothy Kirby, two of the south's outstanding young golfers, will leave the city today to participate in their most important tournaments of the year. Yates will leave this afternoon for New York, where Tuesday at midnight he will sail on the S. S. Bremen for England and the British Amateur and Walker Cup matches.

Kirby will fly early this morning to Birmingham, Ala., where next week she will defend her Southern Women's championship on the Birmingham Country Club course.

After two days of visiting in New York, Yates will join other members of the Walker Cup team at the United States Golf Association offices at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Other members of the team include Ray Billows, of New York; Johnny Fischer, Jr., Cincinnati, Ohio; Johnny Goodman, Omaha, Neb.; Fred Haas Jr., New Orleans; Charles Kocsis, Detroit, Mich.; Reynolds Smith, Dallas, Texas; and Marvin (Bud) Ward, Olympia, Wash.

MIDNIGHT DEPARTURE. A radio broadcast is scheduled for 5 o'clock Tuesday, followed by a dinner at the Union Club at 7:15 o'clock and then the midnight departure.

It's Yates' first venture in the British Amateur, May 23-29, his second in the Walker Cup matches. Last year he won a singles and halved a foursome. The Walker Cup matches will be played at St. Andrews, where Bobby Jones won his only British Amateur in 1930, the first of his grand slam, before retiring from competitive golf.

The Walker Cup team is scheduled to arrive back in New York on June 14, but Yates has been granted a couple of extra days and will visit Paris before returning home.

Kirby will join Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, National Women's champion and runner up in the Southern last May on the No. 2 East Lake course, today for a practice round at Birmingham.

MEET STARTS MONDAY. She will continue practicing Saturday and Sunday and begin play Monday in the qualifying round for the Southern.

It's Kirby's third venture in the Southern. She was eliminated in one of the early rounds two years ago and last year came through to victory.

It's a coincidence that both Yates and Kirby should leave the city at the same time for important tournaments.

Yates' former titles include Georgia state, 1931-1932; National Intercollegiate, 1934; low amateur in August National, 1934, 1937; Western Amateur, 1937; medalist in Southern and Western in 1937, and paired with Dick Garlington won Southern four-ball last year.

Kirby has twice won the state meet, setting course records in both victories, in addition to numerous smaller events. And next week she seeks to win her second Southern title in a row.

Princeton To Name Bohler as Trainer

JACKSON, Miss., May 5.—(P)—The Jackson Daily News said today that it had learned from a reliable source that George (Doc) Bohler, basketball and baseball coach and athletic trainer at the University of Mississippi, would become a member of the Princeton University athletic staff this fall.

"Bohler will have charge of athletic training in the New Jersey school," the News said. "While Bohler's appointment as trainer at Princeton has not been officially confirmed, it was authoritatively stated he would join the Princeton staff in September."

Ed Walker, former athletic director at Ole Miss, recently was signed as an assistant football coach at Princeton.

Rogers Trims de Stefani As Italy and Ireland Tie

DUBLIN, May 5.—(P)—George Lyttelton Rogers, Ireland's towering tennis star, defeated Giorgio de Stefani, of Italy, 7-5, 2-6, 6-3, 6-2, today in the opening singles match of the first-round Davis cup tie between the two countries.

Stagehand Will Be Formally Entered

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5.—(UP)—Stagehand, favorite in the Kentucky Derby winter books, probably will be formally entered in the classic tomorrow in the hope that he will be in condition to start in the 64th running of the Blue Grass classic.

Earl Sande, trainer for the Maxwell Howard team of Stagehand and The Chief, virtually decided tonight to drop Stagehand's name into the box when $500 entry fees are posted tomorrow before 10:30 C. S. T. Sande, it was said, would make the entry regardless of Stagehand's condition.

That would enable Sande to start Stagehand if his fever and cold continues to show improvement between now and post time on Saturday. If he gets no better, Stagehand could be scratched any time up to the start of the race. It will cost Howard $500 to make the entry, but it was learned he "character" of whom many stories are told. He is of the present era.

In a recent newspaper story it was told how he, a soccer and cricket player for Cambridge, commanded a seaplane squadron somewhere on the Italian coast during the late war. He was one of those daring pilots. Once the Italians reported a huge encampment on a neighboring coast. They flew at 15,000 feet. He flew over at 100 feet and saw the "camp" to be shocks of corn.

There is another story that he never filled his spare gas tank but made up for part of the lost weight by nailing armor plate under his seat. He went out to fight submarines and sank two. The anti-aircraft guns and machine guns were active.

He came home with three bullets through the empty spare gas tank and with bruises where three more had struck the reinforced seat. The story reports that in all his football days, when he was an outstanding star, he trained on beer, taking a quart before game time and a quart at half time. He is one of the most popular figures in British golf and his hobby is trying to develop young players for the Walker cup team.

TO NUMBER OR NOT.

Strangely enough England refuses to number its football players and its cricket players. They do hoist the name of a cricket player when he has made a catch. But they will not number them.

There is annual agitation for it, with no success. The rugby players are numbered. It happened in this manner.

Many years ago, King George V, was at Twickenham watching an international. He expressed surprise the players were not numbered so they could be identified. The next year they were numbered.

Many of "the great cloth-capped, heart of England," of course, know the players by heart. But to visitors and to most of the British, their identities remain mysteries. They never have been numbered. So, b'gosh, the British won't number them.

There was opposition in America to numbering college football players. But now the boys are numbered fore and aft and what a howl would go up today if a team trotted out there minus its numbers.

not serious, I do not believe in taking chances with such a good horse," said the Earl as he walked up and down the barn with only a trace of his familiar smile. "Even if he shows improvement within the next two or three days, it will still mean I could not start him even in the Pretkness, May 14, as it will be at least ten days or two weeks before he can be returned to hard training."

Stagehand's withdrawal was the Derby's most severe blow since Quipose, also the future book favorite, pulled up lame on the eve of the 1931 renewal. Stagehand, trained by one of the turf's most popular horsemen, had caught the fancy of the public as few horses have in recent years. Sande himself had handicapped the colt of J. E. Widener's stable as a two-year-old, paying $8,000 for him chiefly because he was a full brother of Sceneshifter, another Howard star.

The son of Sickle was not much as a juvenile, placing second once and third twice in eight races. He developed into a full-fledged star at Santa Anita, however, clinching his California campaign by winning the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby and $100,000 handicap within a space of 10 days.

The withdrawal reduced the probably starting field to 10, the smallest since William Woodward's Fighting Fox into the favorite's position and rallied support for Warren Wright's Bull Lea, Herbert M. Woolf's Lawrin and Hal Price Hadley's Menow. Although The Chief equalled the track record for a mile in the Derby trial, he is considered no such formidable contender as was Stagehand.

Fighting Fox, full brother of Gallant Fox, the 1930 Derby winner, was firmly established as the 5-to-2 choice with the possibility his odds may be still shorter at post time (about 5:30 p. m., central standard time).

The quotations against Bull Lea, creator of two track records at Keeneland, were lowered to 3 to 1. Odds on Lawrin and Menow also were shortened but they remained the co-third choices at 6 to 1 with The Chief and William DuPont Jr.'s Dauber held at 8 and 10 to 1, respectively. Odds on the others ranged from 15 to 1 quoted against Myron Selznick's Can't Wait to 50 to 1 against Bert Friend's Co-Sport and Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Mountain Ridge.

George Woolf, veteran jockey brought here from Maryland especially to ride The Chief, also was left without a mount. Sande said he would put Jack Westrope, his contract rider, up on The Chief. Westrope originally was slated to pilot Stagehand.

figures it is worth it on the off chance that Stagehand can make a miraculous recovery. To all practical purposes, however, the conqueror of Seabiscuit seemed out of the race tonight. That's what Howard said this evening after an anxious day of conferences over the condition of Stagehand.

PURPLES PLAY MARIST TODAY

Two of the best games of the season thus far are scheduled for this afternoon in the semi-final round of the city prep baseball race.

Boys' High plays Marist at 3:30 o'clock at Piedmont park and Commercial meets G. M. A. on the College Park campus.

Both games will go a long way toward deciding the second and third-place winners in the league standing, with only one more round left to play.

Two games will be played in the quarter-final round of the North Georgia Interscholastic conference race, with Norcross at Fulton and Decatur at Northwest DeKalb.

Meanwhile, Tech High and Boys' High are completing plans for a big sports day celebration next Tuesday at Ponce de Leon park.

A similar program was scheduled two weeks ago but was rained out, and with the Crackers out of town, another effort will be made to play the game.

Prizes will be given to both baseball players and spectators for lucky numbers. Included in the prizes will be season tickets to Tech High and Boys' High football games next fall. Tech High will play Commercial High on Monday, in a postponed game from last week.

HACKNEY FACES BROWN TONIGHT

Bob Brown, former Olympic coach, will attempt to throw a rock in the spokes of Honey Boy Hackney tonight at the Northside stadium, located between North avenue and Ponce de Leon on Juniper street. The bouts start at 8:30 o'clock.

Brown, sporting 18-inch whiskers, dares anyone to pull them but the New Jersey grappler has already said he would jerk them from Brown's chin, if he starts anything.

The semifinal match will bring together Black Mike Cassidy, Omaha horror, and Eddie Pope, tough Carolina hombre, in what promises to be one of the features of the night.

Machinists Talk Over Old Times Together

Fred Hewitt (left), editor of the Machinists Monthly Journal, and Emmett C. Davidson, general secretary of the International Association of Machinists, first chapter of which was organized here 50 years ago by 19 machinists, are shown as they visited in a railroad shop yesterday and talked over old times. The two men, with A. O. Wharton, international president of the organization, were guests of honor at a banquet held by Atlanta machinists last night in a downtown hotel on the golden anniversary of the union's founding. All three live in Washington, D. C.

City High School Festival Concert Presented in Auditorium Setting

Spectacular and Beautiful Sight Recounted by Reviewer; Orchestra and Chorus Praised for Fine Work; Younger Children To Sing Today.

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG. The Atlanta Junior and Senior High Schools' Festival Concert was given at the city auditorium last night, with Anne Grace O'Callaghan, supervisor of music in the high schools, directing.

It was a spectacular and beautiful sight that greeted your eyes as you entered the auditorium door, with 700 boys and girls on the stage, in elevated tiers, boys in white and girls in pastel shades, forming a mass of color.

The In-and-Out Atlanta High School orchestra, conducted by Gaines Walter, assisted on the program. They completed the picture, seated on the stage floor level.

It was the first huge concert that the schools had given in the remodeled auditorium. There were two numbers sung by the entire chorus, accompanied by the orchestra. These were "The Lost Chord," Sullivan-Maddy, and the final number, "America," from the symphony "America," by Ernest Bloch. The first number was one of the highlights of the program. Both orchestra and chorus achieved a full, warm tone that rose to a stirring climax.

Another number by the entire choral ensemble, with piano accompaniment, was "The Heavens Are Telling," from Haydn's "The Creation," a brilliant number, handled nicely. The remainder of the program was given by smaller groups, in a variety of combinations.

Miss O'Callaghan deserves plaudits for her work with this chorus. To put on a concert with such a mass of singers means untold work, and a tremendous amount of capability, and she had both to offer unstintingly. Praise also goes to the various teachers in the schools for their untiring work in training the singers from their schools in small groups to prepare them to become a part of the entity. These teachers are Edna Whitmore, Girls' High; Douglas Rumble, Boys' High; Haskell Boyer, Commercial High; N. R. Beacham, Tech High; Katherine de Jarnette, Bass Junior High; Mrs. J. deBruyn Kops, Joe Brown Junior High; Lorelle Tait, Maddox Junior High; Carolyn Campbell, Murphy Junior High; J. D. Shackelford, O'Keefe Junior High; and Ruby Langford, Hoke Smith Junior High.

The In-and-Out Atlanta orchestra held an important place on the program, for in addition to their two accompaniments they played three orchestral numbers. And this orchestra deserves plenty of praise, for their playing was exceptionally good. Their performance of excerpts from Wagner's "Tannhauser" was outstanding in every way. It is remarkable what this group of young people has done since their organization shortly before Christmas. They deserve the wholehearted support of Atlanta and their schools.

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock the festival concert of the elementary schools will be given at the auditorium. A chorus of 1,200 children will sing under the direction of Ruth Weegand, supervisor of music in the elementary schools.

1,200 WILL SING IN SCHOOL MEET

31 Institutions Join in Concert at Auditorium.

Children from 31 schools will participate in the elementary school concert at the city auditorium at 8:15 o'clock tonight, when 1,200 voices will be heard under direction of Ruth Weegand, supervisor of music in elementary schools.

Outstanding numbers to be presented include "In the Luxembourg Gardens," by Manning Deis; the famous "Berceuse" from Jodelyn, by Godard-O'Hare; "Where'er You Walk," by Handel-Grey; "If With All Your Hearts," from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," and Strauss's "Blue Danube."

Mrs. Charles Chalmers will be the accompanist. Fifteen numbers will be sung by the children.

4 STUDENTS HONORED AT EMORY UNIVERSITY

Four graduates of North Fulton High school have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity, at Emory University, according to W. F. Dykes, principal. They are Charles Huggins, Luther Lockhart, Moreton Rolleston and Bedford Davis.

Miss Suzanne Kaulback, another Fulton High student, recently was awarded a $700 scholarship by Agnes Scott College in Decatur.

DR. WOOLLEY DENIES EMBARGO PETITION

Says She Did Not Sign Petition to U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president emerita of Mt. Holyoke College, told the State Department today she had not signed or authorized the signing of her name to a petition presented to the department that the embargo on arms shipments to Spain be lifted.

A delegation headed by the Rev. Dr. J. A. MacCallum, editor of the Presbyterian Tribune, and including Nobel Prize Winner Professor Harold Urey, of Columbia University, had called at the department and presented the petition.

Secretary of State Hull, who had been scheduled to receive the delegation, refused to see it on the grounds of press of business. The group talked instead with Counselor R. Walton Moore.

YOUTH, 14, DROWNS IN CLEAR CREEK

Police Search for Body of Henry Anthony.

First drowning of the season was reported yesterday as police searched for the body of Henry Anthony, 14, negro, of 34 Fort street, N. E., who lost his life while swimming with a companion in Clear Creek, a branch of Peachtree Creek.

The body has not been recovered. Nathaniel Willis, 13, negro, of 114 1-2 Moore street, N. E., the lad's companion, said they went swimming Wednesday afternoon and that Henry soon got into difficulties.

"He grabbed hold of me, and then slipped into the water," he said. "The last I saw of him was his foot sticking out of the water."

They "beat" the city's 2 per cent sales tax. The sailors have their purchases sent to the yard, government property, and therefore exempt from the tax.

BIG BUSINESS HELD SITTING ON F. D. R.

Davidson, Labor Leader, Describes 'Squat-Down Strike' in Talk to Machinists.

Atlanta Lodge No. 1, International Association of Machinists, joined more than 1,000 similar groups last night in observing the golden anniversary of the founding of the organization here in 1888.

More than 300 persons gathered at a dinner at the Henry Grady hotel and heard speakers praise trade unions as "an indispensable part of the economic and social life of America."

E. C. Davidson, of Washington, general secretary-treasurer, speaking on behalf of A. O. Wharton, international president, who was unable to attend, said that the machinists have always taken the lead in any movement designed to promote the welfare of the country as a whole.

Hitting at the wage cuts recently proposed for railroad workers, he asserted it was "foolish" to think that prosperity could be brought back by reducing purchasing power; and he charged that the biggest "sit-down strike" in this country today is

Atlanta Post Office Receipts Show Gain

Atlanta's post office receipts last month showed a slight gain over April, 1937. Postmaster Lon F. Livingston announced yesterday.

The month's total was $397,432 as compared with $396,469 last year, or an increase of 24 per cent. It marked the first upturn since January, which showed a gain of 1.51 per cent over January last year. There was a loss in February and March.

"big business sitting on the President."

Emmett L. Quinn, president of the Atlanta lodge, presided at the meeting, and the other principal speaker was Fred Hewitt, of Washington, editor of the Machinists' Monthly Journal.

Henry F. Garrett, an employee of the city and one of the original 19 machinists who founded the organization on May 5, 1888, was one of the principal honor guests. The organization now has more than 200,000 members with lodges in Canada, throughout the United States and all its possessions.

Caribou, moose, deer and other big game animals are increasing in northern Manitoba.

MRS. W. G. LEE DIES IN HOME AT MACON

Banker's Wife Had Been Ill for Six Months.

Mrs. W. G. Lee, wife of Dr. W. G. Lee, chairman of the board of directors of the First National Bank & Trust Company of Macon, died at 9:20 o'clock last night at her home there after an illness of six months.

She was the former Miss Christine Cole, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Cole, of Newnan. Surviving in addition to her husband are a daughter, Miss Christine Lee, a student at Goucher College in Baltimore; two sons, W. G. Lee Jr., a junior at Georgia Tech, and Nat Cole Lee; a sister, Mrs. F. B. Willingham, Forsyth, Ga., and a sister-in-law, Mrs. J. S. Cole, of Macon.

Funeral services will be announced.

F. & A. M. LUCKIE LODGE TO MARK MILESTONE

W. D. Luckie Lodge No. 89, F. & A. M., will celebrate its 49th anniversary at a meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the temple at Gordon and Lee streets, during which tribute will be paid to the founders of the lodge and certiates will be presented to those who have been members for 25 years or more.

The Rev. Irby Henderson, pastor of the Park Street Methodist church, will be principal speaker at the meeting and there will be a musical program under the direction of E. W. Wilson. Worshipful Master P. L. Bardin will preside.

NEWMANITE ENDS LIFE WITH DOSE OF POISON

NEWMAN, Ga., May 5.—Gene Alsbrook, about 35, Newman businessman, was found dead of poison at his home here today, a suicide, according to the verdict of a jury called by Coroner Owens.

Alsbrook had recently sold interest in a local dry cleaning plant. He was said to have been despondent.

Surviving are his wife, Gene Alsbrook, of Villa Rica, a sister, Mrs. Leonard Taylor Newman.

Bobby Leach, Englishman, went over Niagara Falls in a reel without suffering injury, from the effects of slipping on a banana peel.
